Elections in the Gym? Why not? Here Phyllis Weaver states her qualifications for rising sophomore class president.

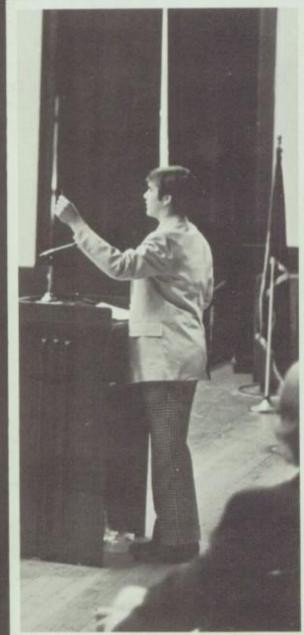

May is a busy month for GHS'ers. Activities seem to overflow, in order to get everything completed before school gets out.

There are dances and parties to go with the general spring atmosphere. Clubs and societies hold that one last meeting to officially say "farewell." Elections get underway to prepare ahead for the coming year. Eagerly awaited publications finally arrive. Reviewing for final exams starts haunting students about the middle of the month. Graduation anxiety mounts for Seniors, as that important day draws near. First week beach plans assemble together between close friends. Last minute visits to colleges are hurriedly made. Summer jobs get booked up, to earn extra money. Family vacations are anticipated for some relaxation.

Memories of the years highlights establish themselves in the students' minds. With every end comes a new beginning.

Firecrackers represent action, as Rush Wilson demonstrates in his campaign speech.

Bobby Pepper attempts to memorize Woodrow Wilson's famous 14 points.

Everything else fades out of Kitten Lawless's mind as she crams for one of her exams.

Graduation exercises at Memorial Auditorium mark the final step for the class of '74.

"Two hours for one exam. I'll never be able to do it." "If she gives us one more quote to learn, I'm going to scream." "50 pages more to read just like that." "Two exams a day and I would have to be taking six subjects." "English and Algebra III together are going to be murder." "If I just had one more day to study I might pass." "I made good grades all year long and now I'm going to flunk them." "Who invented exams?" "Gosh! It's 1:00 A.M. if I don't go to bed, I'll never be able to keep my eyes open tomorrow." "Mrs. Hudson, could you repeat number 16 just one more time?" "How long is it going to be?" "Boy, will I be glad when school is out!" "Don't make it hard, Mrs. Payne, we've got football practice this afternoon."

RISING

As finals approach, Ms. Steussy clarifies a point for Tracey Sawyer.

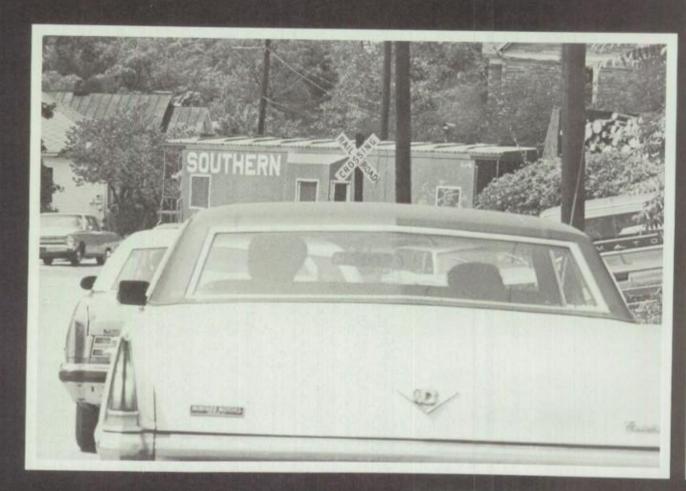

A new High School League ruling allows Coach Bowers to hold spring practice.

Exasperation sets in on Suzy Kraft as the pressure mounts.

SCHOOL

Some drive away . . . Some walk away . . .

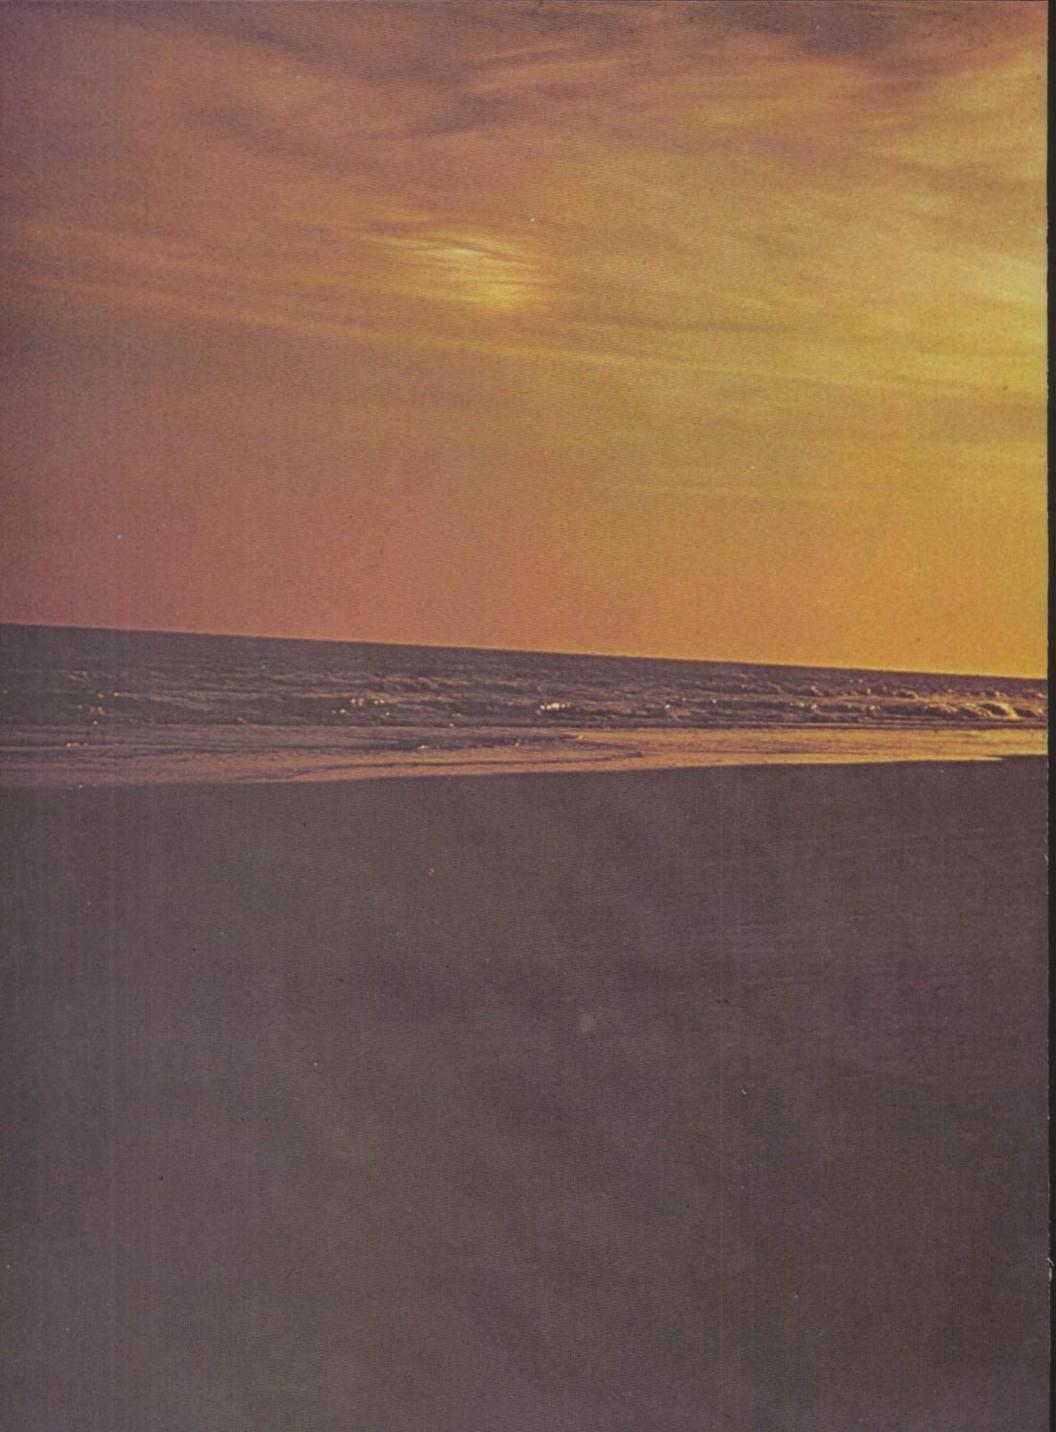

Some don't want to go away ...

The school was left fairly empty for that remaining week after Seniors graduated. Not too much was going on, except for people running from class to class taking their exams. Teachers, along with giving exams and grading them, had to make out report cards two days earlier, due to the new report card procedure.

Instead of students coming back on the traditional Saturday to get their report cards, their last day was Thursday. This meant teachers had to have their Thursday's exam graded that night, along with their others and report cards filled out, to get them in the mail by the next day.

By the time the report cards came in the mail though, most students were at the beach. This makes it kinda nice if you don't do so good, 'cause it gives your parents at least a week to accept it and they won't be half as mad by the time you get home.

SUMMER

Summer provides variety

The aftermath of the SAT on June 22.

Selling ads was one of the summer duties of the Nautilus staff.

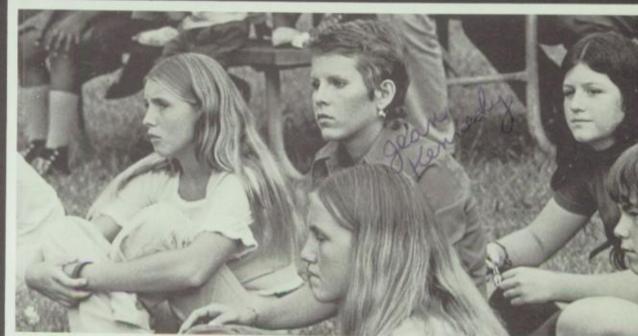

Planning of the Yearbook officially began with a seminar at Bonclarken.

The Cleveland Park Zoo is one of Russell Stall's summer stops.

Summer concerts, sponsored by the Recreation Department, attract GHS students.

Summer means different things to different people. Preparing for colleges by taking tests geared toward college-bound students. Catching up on things you never had time to do during school. Taking on responsibilities around the house. Going to summer camps for a change of scenery. Attending concerts to see old friends. Representing GHS at workshops and seminars. Vacationing around to see a little of the country. Selling ads for the publication staffs. Visiting colleges to get an idea where you might want to attend. Working at summer jobs to earn extra money for upcoming expenses. Participating in athletics to get back into shape. Watching television to see what you've been missing during the school year. Wasting time away to avoid pressures. Spending the night with friends and not getting much sleep. Being yourself.

Fun in the sun

Greg Hare shows off his physique when the sun goes down.

Everybody has fun at a church retreat.

Allen McWhite provides entertainment for the church group with his ukulele.

Beach trips are always the best part of summer. The majority of GHS students go either first week, with their families, or later on with their different church groups. No matter when they go, there's always something to do.

First week is the most active trip of the three, because so many go and stay at the same beach. You usually know someone in every house, whether it be a sorority house or just a large group of people. During this week, sleep is unheard of. There are parties just about every night. People just go plain bananas!

For a calmer atmosphere, but for still the same amout of fun, students go to the beach with their church groups. Here, more meaningful relationships are often established.

Laurie Huskey enjoys the sun.

"Boys will be boys" as Dale Lusk demonstrates.

Clowning around is always a favorite pastime when a group gets together at the beach.

Pat Messer relaxes as she awaits her unloading instructions.

Big repeditions the spire.

Jobs and activities

Sherry Robinson enjoys monogramming at Meyers Arnold.

Edward Stall will tell you that there are many duties to a camp counselor's job.

Cindy McKay's mind seems to wander at a Young Life meeting.

Part time jobs help to keep a good portion of GHS students busy during the summer. Some of the occupations included: monogramming, camp counselors, construction workers, clerks and life guards. Others were babysitters, ushers, waitresses and department store clerks.

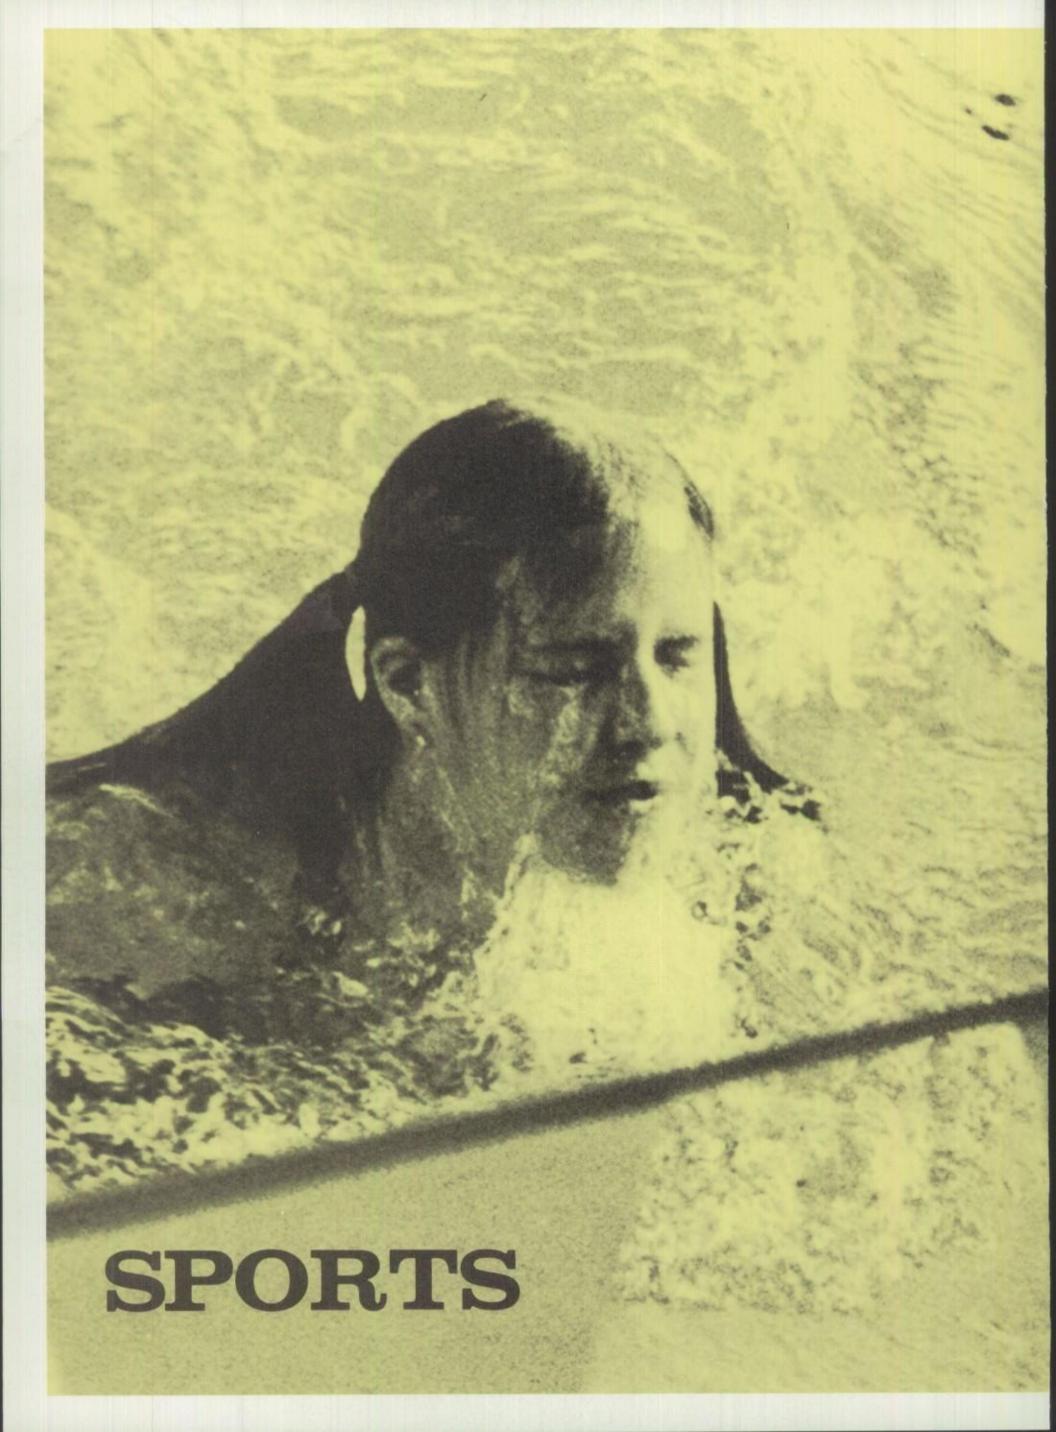

Students' reasons for working were as varied as the jobs they chose. Some of their reasons included: to earn money, to seek experience for future careers, and to just fill in those long summer hours.

Not everybody worked. Many students found other activities interesting and worthwhile, such as traveling, going to camps, and attending church functions. Whether you worked or played, the summer seemed to get away before you were ready for it to end.

Mrs. Catherine Moore, retired science teacher, is still engrossed with her home away from home.

Familiar songs like "Pass It On" and "He's Everything To Me" are sung at a Young Life meeting attended by GHS'ers.

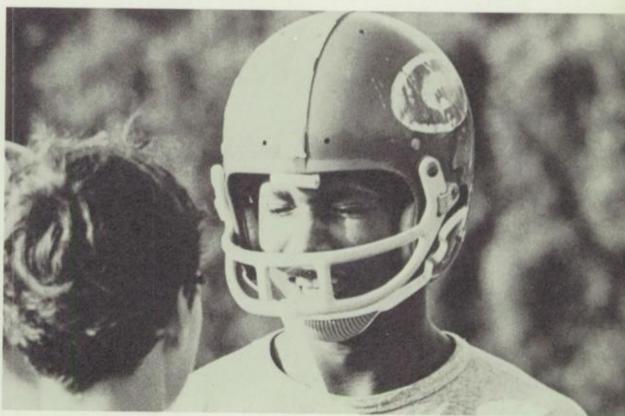

Smashing a return at the Greenville Country Club, Jeannie Anderson practices her fore-hand swing.

Julie Farnsworth lives it up at Lake Hartwell.

Shooting basketball was one favorite pastime during the summer months.

Norwood McBee takes time out during practice to talk to the student manager.

Swimming competition keeps students

in shape

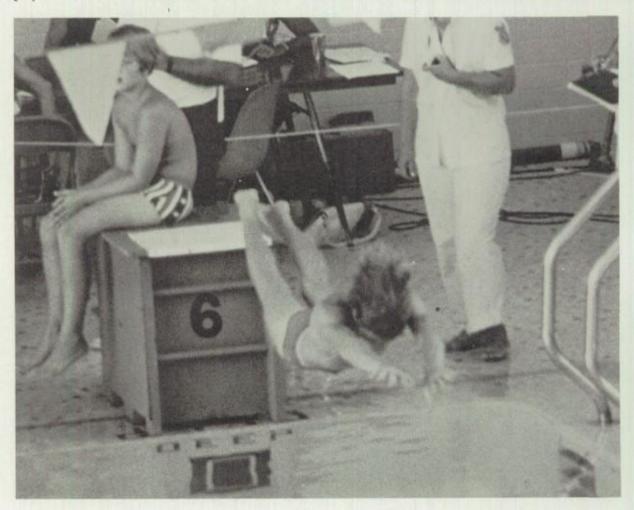

All right, in the pool! Twenty laps breast stroke. O.K. lets go a little bit faster people. Down and up three laps butterfly. Get those shoulders out of the water. Ya'll are so bad! Move it 12 laps free style. Kick! kick! Cup those hands. Out of the water six laps back stroke. Pull! Pull! Now under water two laps. Don't breathe! O.K. down the pool free style back up on your back. Stroke . . . Stroke . . . Ya'll better get in shape. That Sail Meet is coming up.

The Greenville Country Club swim team is full of GHS students as well as students of other schools. They competed in several meets including the big Sail Meet in which they placed second.

Team practice was twice a day during the long hot summer months. Once in the morning at 10:30 to 12:00 and once at night from 6:00 to 7:00. The practices required a lot of heavy breathing and tired muscles.

Cathy McCalla finishes with a spray of water.

Sail Meet swimmer explodes off the starting block.

Swimmer comes off the turn and heads for the finish line.

David Stapleton stands poised on the starting block. Sharon Matthews swims the breast stroke for Greenville Country Club.

Spring practice—blood, sweat, and guts

"You boys think this is all fun and games? ... Get moving; Shumate ... I know you have a broken leg, Bailey, but we aren't baby-sitting ... Come on, Simpkins, you______. Hussle, Bell ... Quit clowning around, Adams ... Knock the "&?*&** out of him, Boyd ... Pick 'em up! ... Hit it ... Drive 'em ... Drive 'em ... Head up, butt down ... Sky them eyes ... Take off and don't stop 'til you get to the gate."

"Coach, you look like you could use some Gatorade."

Familiar sounds? Remember those endless, scorching days this summer? But those practices paid off when the season started. Didn't they? The 8-2-0 record speaks for itself.

Coach Bowers talks over the up-coming football season.

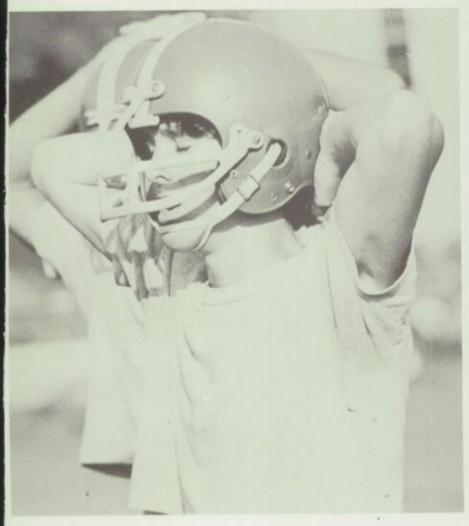

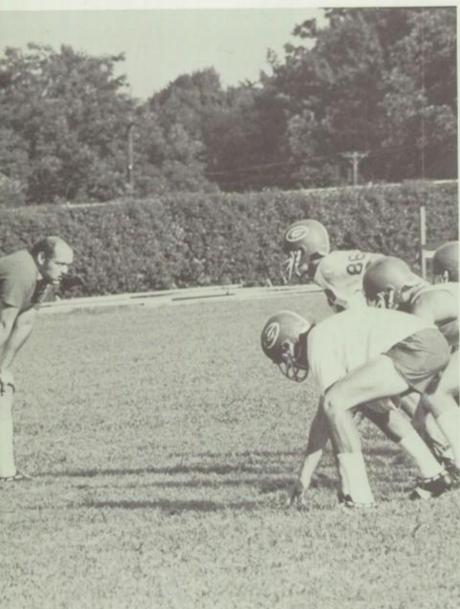

Kyle Bailey watches the action from the sidelines with a pulled muscle.

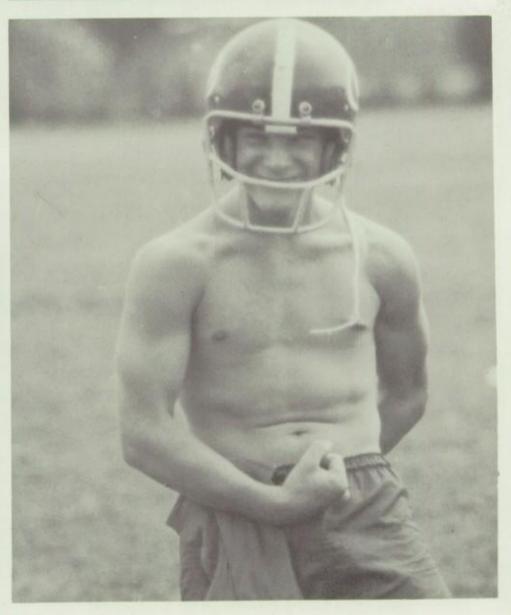

Greenville's long time trainer "Doc" Grady is always on the scene.

Alan Dobbins takes a deep breath after wind sprints.

Rusty Adams finds the time to clown around.

Coach Hopkins sends the linemen through grass drills.

Even teachers can be people

Sometimes it's hard to realize that teachers and administrators are more than professionals who make out assignments and report cards.

In spite of long hours each week devoted to GHS, there's time for family life, church, politics, physical fitness, hobbies self-education, entertainment, and volunteer work.

Martha Francis Morgan, who retired in December is a Humane Society member, collects stamps, and is a member of Greenville Country Club. Expected of a coach is Stan Hopkin's love of hunting and fishing. Chuck Evans' lesson in politics are aided by his active role in the local Republican Party. He also enjoys playing bridge and gin. Concerned with physical fitness, Raven Mersereau also plays the piano and the dulcimer. Porter Smith social studies teacher, spends his free time reading. Involved in the National Organization for Women, theatre, and photography, is Bonnie Steussy. Equally active, Ellen (Chickie) Moore attends Clemson, advises Young Life Club, works at GHS football games, and does modern, tap, and clog dancing.

Stan Hopkins would rather be putting shoulder pads on his son Cade, than diapers.

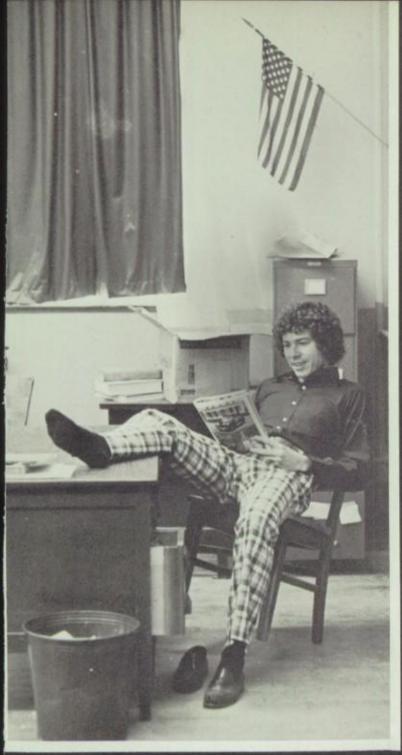

Most people try to cut down on eating, but Latin teacher Martha Francis Morgan, enjoys a nice, quiet dinner at the Greenville Country Club.

Purple, Purple, describes only one person at GHS-social studies teacher, Chuck Evans, he is an avid Furman sports fan.

Shoe off and relaxed in a tilted chair, reading comes easy for Porter Smith, social studies teacher.

We may have a carpenter among us, Ellen Moore, helps her husband enclose a garage at their home.

Even though it isn't a french poodle, French teacher, Bonnie Steussy enjoys playing with her dog, Spof, in her spare time.

Having plants all over the house doesn't bother Raven Merseaeau, math teacher, who enjoys caring for them.

Some teachers are aspiring poets

Faculty members volunteer much time to being good citizens. Mary Alice Witters enriches her experiences by traveling in the U.S. and other countries, she is always kept busy with her indoor pool, knitting afghans, and her poodle named Gidget. John Freeman enjoys spectator sports and listening to Olivia Newton-John recordings. Totally devoted to athletics, Elizabeth Ellison instructs girls in physical activities at her summer camp. Fred Simpson plays 18 holes of golf on weekends. Aside from her family activities, Marian Rice finds time to sew. Sundays are active days for Marjorie Ridgell, who is a church librarian, choir member, and Sunday school instructor. Marsha Marrett is an outdoors type, who coaches and plays tennis.

John Freeman, Economics teacher, paints a school table during the summer in the traditional DE colors.

Attending the Presidental Luncheon, was just one of the many things Mary Alice Witters, Librarian, enjoyed doing.

March must be the lucky month for Brenda Suddeth, she's been busy decorating the nursery and resting up. I wonder why?

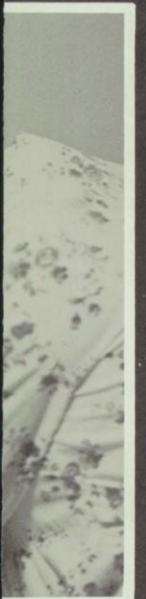

How many people would believe that Elizabeth Ellison is a director of her own camp? Well, she is at Camp Oolenoy during the summer.

Asst. Principal Fred Simpson finds more ice than drink in a coke at the Junior-Senior Powderpuff game.

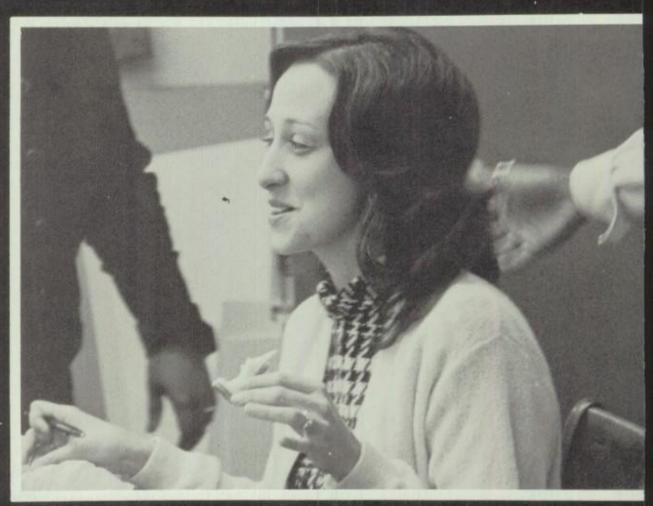

GHS isn't an entertainment center, but Marjorie Ridgell returns some films that were shown for entertainment during study halls and lunch shifts.

Getting a good look at the "rear view" of the male beauty contestants are Marsha Marrett, business teacher (L) and Marian Rice, Spanish teacher (R) as judges during Field Day.

Xmas celebrations at Wendy Hudson's

A mother of four daughters and one granddaughter, Sarah Payne, who enjoys the beach, is a strong supporter of GHS activities. Working on a degree in Administration, Wendy Hudson snow skiis, works in the Little Theatre and practices yoga. On the weekends Dr. Max Skidmore tries to find time for golf, and other outdoor sports. While listening to good music is Rev. Rayfield Medcalf's main interest, he is also a bowler. Teaching a String Orchestra at GHS is what Eliza Stockman is in charge of and it comes easy since she is a member of the Greenville Symphony Orchestra. Gwen Ford could be a pool shark, she enjoys playing the sport in her spare time, and at school she is a cheerleader sponsor for both the JV and Varsity.

Finding the "kissy-kissy" part of the Senior Player pep ralley amusing is Sarah Payne, English teacher.

If you haven't already guessed who this is all decked out in a skiing outfit, it's Wendy Hudson, Drama teacher, demonstrating proper skiing positions. Indoors?

Pastor at Israel Metropolitan C.M.E. Church, Rev. Rayfield Medcalf enjoys taping recordings in his spare time.

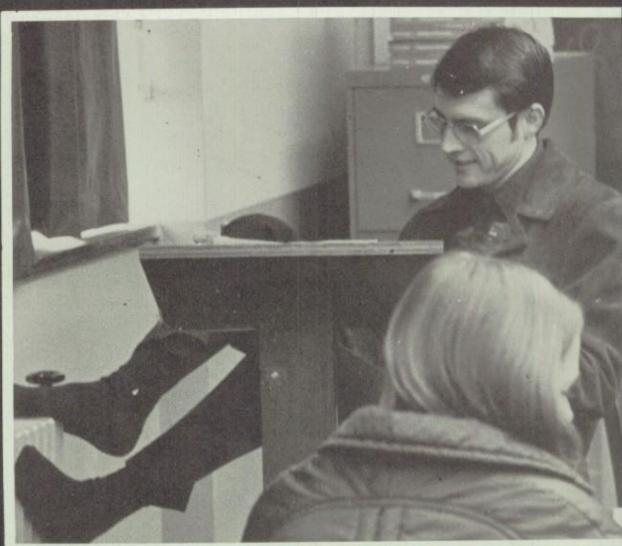

Is he a gangster from the mafia? Heck no, it's Principal Max Skidmore, with a walkie-talkie used now for faster communication.

Performing with some other pupils during class, strings instructor, Eliza Stockman, concentrates hard on playing correctly.

New teachers add excitement to GHS

New Asst. Principal, Al Reed has taught previously before as a social studies teacher and a counselor at the University of Colorado. He finds time to read, play football and bowl. Mary Wardlaw keeps busy during the day at school in the office but at home she has a sewing room set up in her back bedroom. Sewing, cooking and knitting seems would be enough to keep Caro-Wofford busy, but being a guidance counselor keeps her on her toes. Margaret Parks, outside hobbies include reading and working on needlework. Gladys Perrin, Greenville County first recipient of a sabbatical leave from teaching, is an antique lover as her home shows. Susan Kee at school is in charge of the Pep Club Drive, Homecoming, Senior Game and Basketball; off campus she is still very active with golf and tennis.

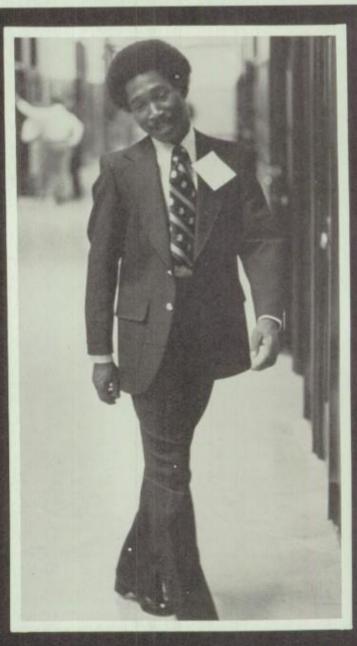

Preparing a filmstrip, Margaret Parks, English teacher, entertains her classroom.

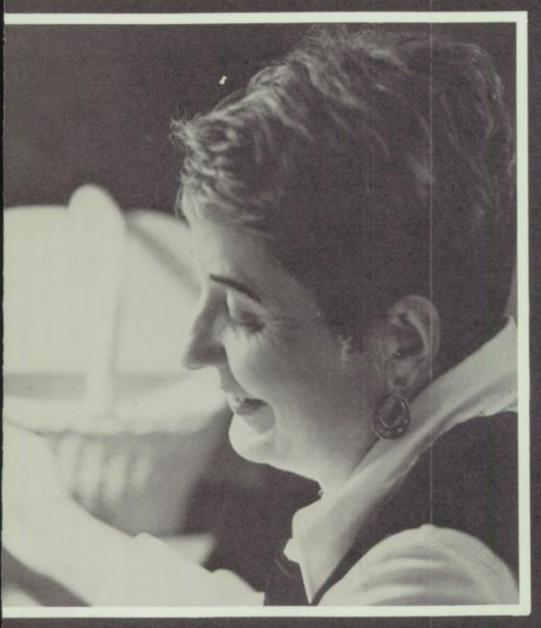

If Al Reed, Asst. Principal, doesn't have soul, then

Doubtfully, Gladys Perrin is looking for earth worms; she's just uprooting ground to plant new bulbs.

Susan Kee, English teacher, smiles at the crowning of Miss Raiderama during Hmecoming.

Hopefully, Caro Wofford, counselor, doesn't feel this way about school, maybe it's just the Monday morning blues.

Secretary Mary Wardlaw enjoys sewing in her spare time.

Also involved in Church Activities

Lucille Roseman, a member of West Gantt Baptist Church, sews, does yard work, sings and cooks, which comes in handy with being a dictician. Reading poetry and caring for plants are just a few things William Ehlen does. Anna Richardson's hobbies vary widely from reading to traveling. Receiving AAUW Awards for Math and Physics, Sandra Hester enjoys horseback riding, cooking, sewing and tennis. Xanthene Norris is involved with Community Services; she's on the Board of Greenville Mental Health. Dana Hall is a member of Concert Choir at Furman. Singing is what Dave Vassy enjoys. He sings in a barber shop quartet and has performed at Carowinds. William Parton enjoys such activities as hunting, fishing and golf.

English instructor Anna Richardson stops on GHS school grounds to enjoy a newspaper.

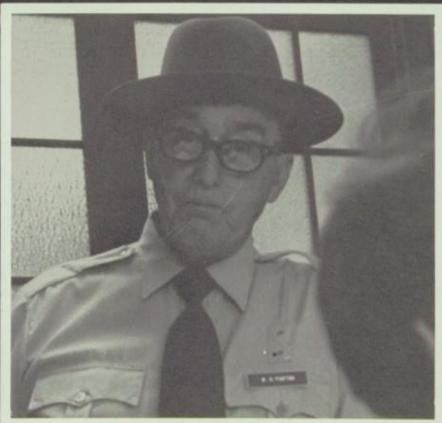

Lucille Roseman, dietician, works in the line giving a boy change.

As a pasttime, Sandra Hester, math teacher, enjoys riding horses.

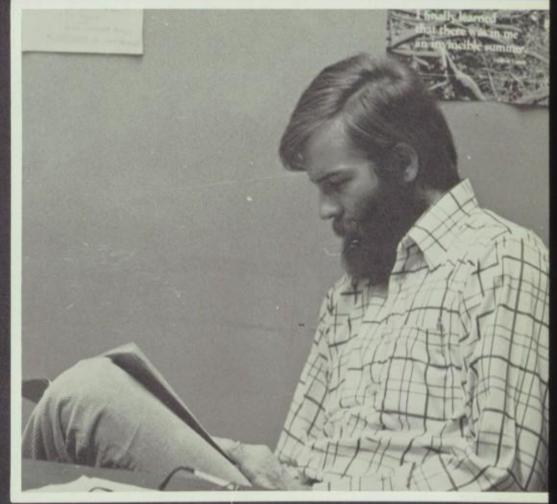

Daydreaming or thinking about work to do ahead is Xanthene Norris, counselor.

Being in charge of watching the school and cars, William Parton.

Singing a duet in the Christmas Assembly are, Dave Vassy, science teacher, and Dana Hall, chorus teacher.

Nothing like reading a book thinks office attendant, William Ehlen.

Teachers meetings held after school

Angie Prince is involved with jewelry making, sewing, writing, and karate. Lillie Edwards had been honored with praise for the National Science Foundation Grant. Lynn Burnett enjoys guitar, back-packing, and canoeing. Richard Davis enjoys sports and outdoor activities such as camping, fishing, and hunting. Virginia Layman's activities are centered around her home, where she enjoys being a housewife and mother. Thomasena Jones was a counselor for the National Honor Society, and second Vice President for the PTSA. Joan Whitehurst seems to always tell old stories during class about her old car.

She may not be Bach, but Angie Prince, English and Journalism teacher, plays the piano in her spare time.

Thomesena Jones, an English instructor, listens intensely at a meeting after school

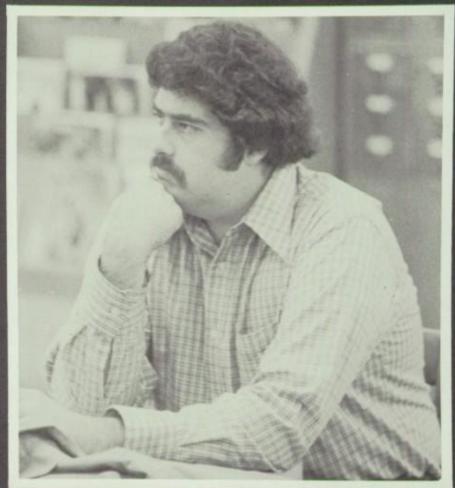

Lillie Edwards, math instructor, discusses a problem raised in the meeting with a teacher.

"Darn, when is this thing going to be over," the expression on mechanical drawing teacher Richard Davis's face seems to say.

It seems like Virginia Layman, Spanish teacher, can't get away from the photographers; as she turns her head from the one in front, one catches her at the side.

Resource Center teacher, Lynn Burnett, prepares to begin with the tennis team tryouts after school.

Pets occupy teacher's spare time

Martha Garrett is a secretary at Greenville in the office; she also enjoys playing golf. Rev. C.W. Hayes is the plant engineer at Greenville. The minister at Mason Lodge 319, he also enjoys hunting and fishing. Being a nurse at GHS can sometimes be bothersome, but Judy Smith has handled it well so far; she enjoys sewing and reading. Steven Gillespie has really done a lot for the GHS band this year, with car washes, selling fruit and sweat shirts. He is active in water sports. Home Economics teacher, Kathy Dunn enjoys playing with her two Labrador Retrievers and sewing. Gene McHargue paints for a hobby and exhibits his work in art shows. He enjoys bowling, golf, horseback riding, and outdoor activities with his wife. Lee Johnson enjoys inventive cooking and playing cards. She is the author of her first book and is starting on her second one, which proves she loves to write.

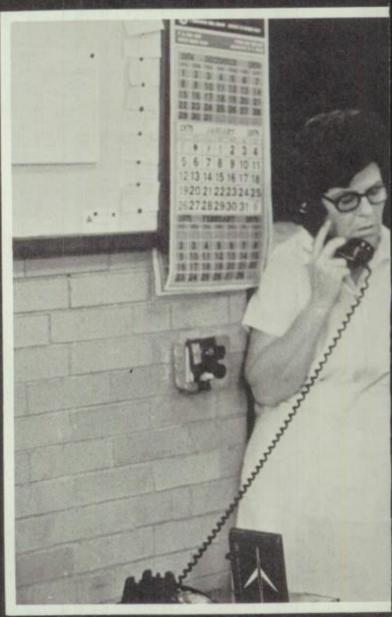

Kathy Dunn, Home Economics teacher, enjoys one of her hobbies after school-sewing.

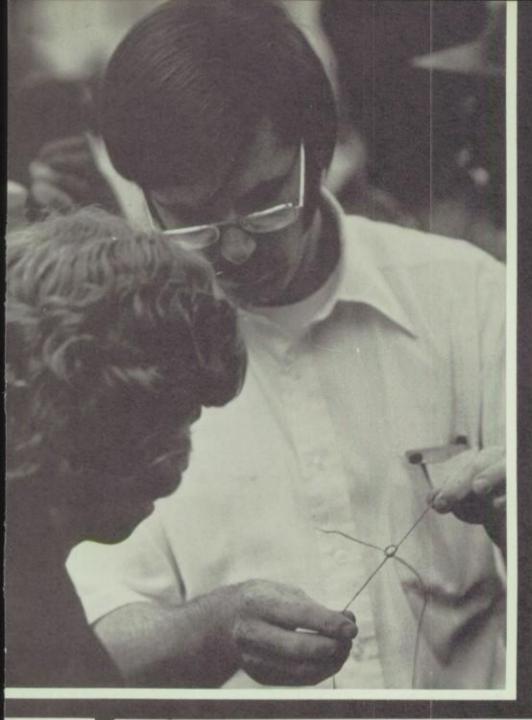

Being the new dietician, Lee Johnson is keeping busy, ordering food and maintaining the cafeteria in good condition.

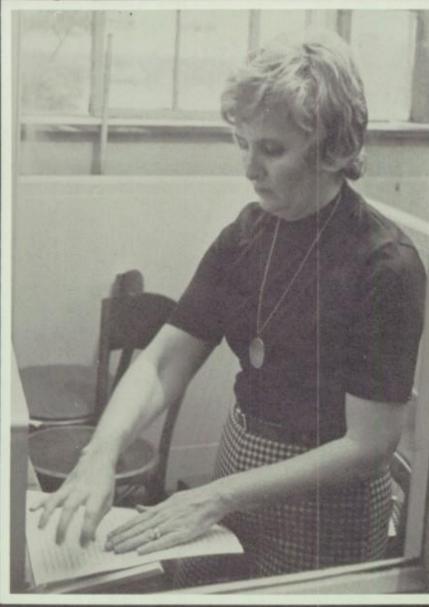

Art teacher Gene McHargue, shows Kay Luke how to tie a knot.

Rev. C.W. Hayes, the new plant engineer, does most of his work after school, which includes calling people for his help in various ways.

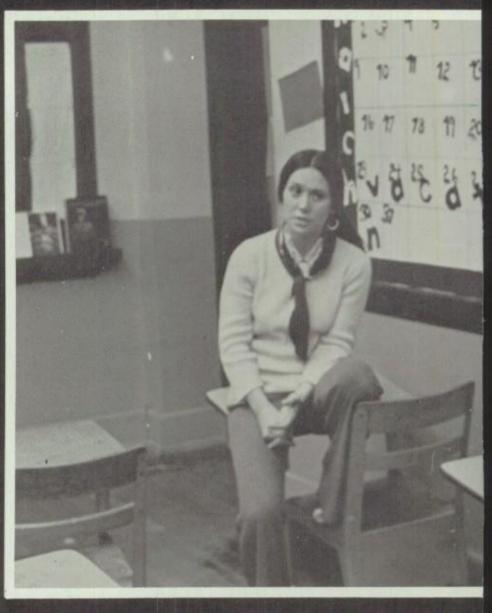

Using the new xerox machine, secretary, Martha Carrett, copies materials for the office.

Judy Smith keeps busy as the school nurse, she is said to be one of the nicest members of the administration.

Two sides of teachers

Paperwork just seems to keep piling up on Marilee Moore, Junior Counselor.

Explaining writing techniques, Beverly Stroud, English teacher takes it easy on a desk.

Sally Hager enjoys teaching and doing yoga. She is attendance officer, and helps with other office duties. Vicky Goodlett is kept pretty busy with her German shepard, coaching swimming, and dabbling in art. Marilee Moore is the Junior Counselor, who enjoys snow skiing and reading. In her parttime Betty Owens is a licensed real estate salesperson; she also enjoys reading, sewing and gardening. D.W. Canty enjoys listening to jazz and classical music, meeting people, rughooking and gourmet cooking. Beverly Stroud came new to GHS as an English teacher. Don Hall enjoys listening to music, water sports, and outdoor activities. He has five years coaching experience.

At her real estate office, Betty Owens finds time to play with her son.

Thoughts of childhood re-enter D.W. Canty's mind as she plays with her daughter.

Sally Hager caught the camera's eye on the school campus.

"Oh, Chocolate Marshmallows!!" exclaims Coach Don Hall, Drivers Education teacher.

"Outdoors Type"

is common in many teachers

Smith Danielson seems to be the outdoors type; besides from teaching physical education he enjoys golf, tennis, fishing and hunting. Betty Atwood is also an outdoors type; she is seen at many spectator sports. Hiking is included in her hobbies. Anne Barber mixes math with Xmas when her classes made a math Xmas tree. Other hobbies include traveling, needlework, tennis, and other activities with her family. Changing a name in the middle of a school year can be hard but aside from bowling Judy Chapman has found time to change it to Beck.

Student Service keeps Andrea Kelly busy along with tennis, needlework, and playing pool. Lee Madrazo enjoys camping and refinishing furniture. He is also in charge of the bus drivers. Receiving the S.C. Agriculture Teacher of the Year in 1974, J.T. Black is in charge of the school grounds beautification at GHS. He enjoys swimming and outdoor barbeque.

Walking her dog, Betty Atwood, librarian, hikes for her exercises.

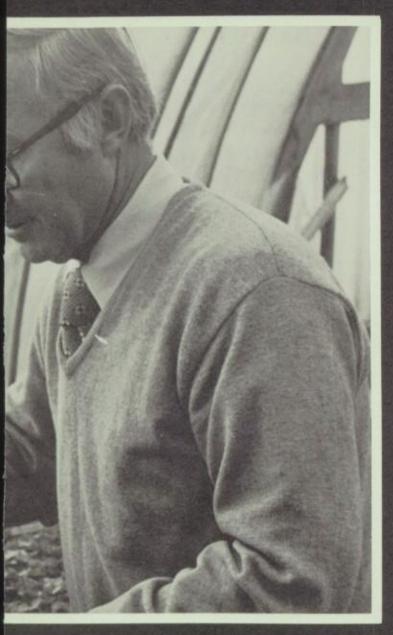

Being the agriculture teacher, J.T. Black, spends a lot of his time in the greenhouse.

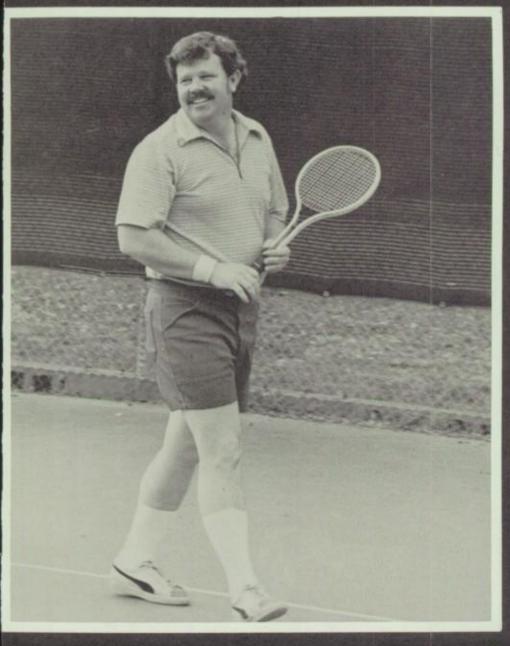

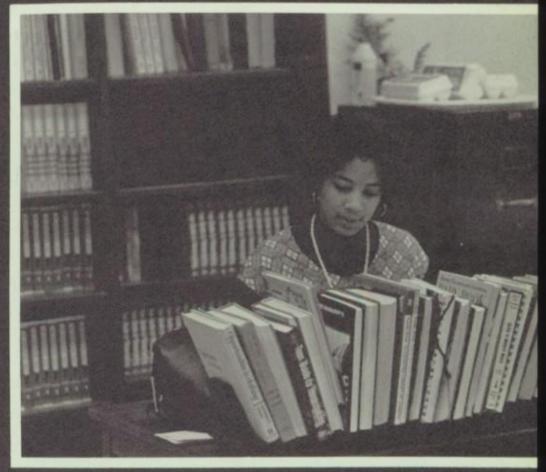

Business teacher, Andrea Kelly's, expression seems to be "10-ball in the corner pocket."

Helping her son ride a bike Anne Barber, math teacher, seems to enjoy it.

Working after school, Home Ec. teacher, Judy Chapman Beck keeps busy till 3:30.

"Tennis anyone"? grins Smith Danielson, physical education teacher, on the Cleveland Park tennis courts.

Coaches also spend time teaching

Patricia Robbins enjoys working in art and teaching it at the Greenville Museum. Duke Fisher is involved with being the Assistant football, basketball and "e" team coach. His hobbies include sports. William Johnson is active in JV basketball and track. He is a member of the Big Brother Association and enjoys pocketpool. Malcom Singleton is the JV football, wrestling and track coach. He teaches at Greenville Middle School and comes to GHS in the afternoon. Hilda Griffith is a member of the S.C. Academy of Science. James Caligan enjoys playing the clarinet. Juliette Cement's hobbies are traveling and reading.

Packing up for the weekend Hilda Griffith, Science teacher loads her trunk with camping equipment.

Reading the sport page is commonly done among many men like James Caligan English teacher demonstrates.

"I said don't take my picture" exclaims Juliette Clements, English teacher.

Getting a side view of things is Fred Bowers, Athletic Director.

Patricia Robbins, Art teacher, looks on as one of her students demonstrates an art project.

Letting Coach Hall do the talking Duke Fisher, biology teacher, and William Johnson, geometry teacher, just listen in.

"You're not mad are you," Malcomb Singleton a GHS coach, often hears this among his players.

Freshman begin school confused, but anxious

So this is Greenville High . . . Gosh it's big ... Where do I go? ... Oh, the cafeteria ... Where is the cafeteria? ... Oh, downstairs ... Where's downstairs? ... Oh, find the steps . . . Where are the steps? ... That orientation was scarey ... All those people ... I don't know hardly anyone ... They say the principal is never seen but has children locked up in his room beating them ... I wonder if you really do have six tests every day ... I heard that there are riots all the time ... That man on the intercom scares me ... Go to where? ... Oh, first period ... Where is room 306? ... Oh, those signs all go the same way! ... What comes after first period? ... Oh, I guess second ... That teacher was nice ... I don't think he has bad breath like everybody says ... That girl almost knocked me down . . . Oh, I've already been on this hall . . . I can tell it's going to be a long year ...

There is a first time for everything—even freshmen

The newness of the school, anticipation of seeing new faces and some old ones that were missed during the summer, and the final realization that you are at last a part of the "School on the Hill" contributed to the hustle and the bustle of the excitement in the halls of GHS on Orientation Day.

Not only was the school new to the freshmen class this year, but also the first football game, the first pep rally, the first club day, and many more experiences—not to mention their first election. The students gave speeches in front of their classes. Many students tried out for the JV cheerleader—if they weren't elected, at least they got in shape.

Freshmen today, but tomorrow we'll be Seniors too

After living through the first week of school, a six-period day, exams, bomb scares, getting caught for cutting class, the cafeteria and the restrooms, the freshmen feel more adjusted at Greenville High. They now realize that the administration and teachers are people after all. The day-to-day routines set in, and the freshman class begins to merge with the rest of the student body. Unfortunately the newness can't last through the next three years ahead. But there is always the hope that one day you'll be an upperclassman and finally a "privileged" Senior.

"Selling Ads
During the Summer?"
"You're crazy!"

That's the way most people feel about selling ads in the summer. But our staff gave up some of their spare time to sell ads to many of the businesses in the Greenville County area. Why sell ads? Because we wanted to make the Nautilus better, and to do that we had to have more money. So thanks to the people who did work hard during the summer trying to sell ads and thanks to the businesses who bought them, also

Council works for students' benefit

New progress was made in Student Council this year. There were seminars with Dr. Max Skidmore during which students were given the chance to express their ideas and questions to the principal. Several issues were thrown into the open and discussed. Subjects debated included the Senior parking lot, Senior privileges, the condition of the school, and the lack of heat.

Student Council is composed of class officers, homeroom presidents, and various committee chairmen. Council is important because it acts as a student voice to the administration and faculty.

Presiding over council were Student Body President Steve Ladson, Vice President Edward Stall, and Secretary Sput Presley. These three officers along with Junior Class President Tim Reed represented Greenville High on Inter-High Council, A council of high school leaders who fought for smoking lounges and among other things, sponsored Student Exchange Day.

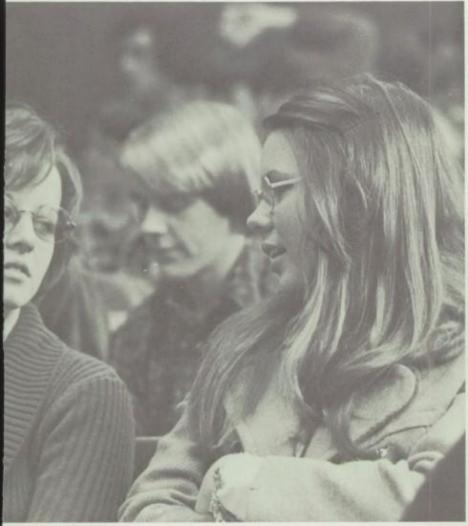

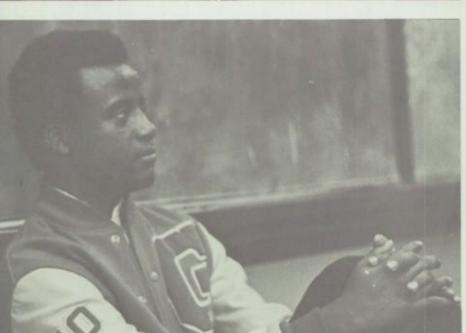

Many comments arose in the minds of homeroom presidents during a discussion of the "Citizens of the Month".

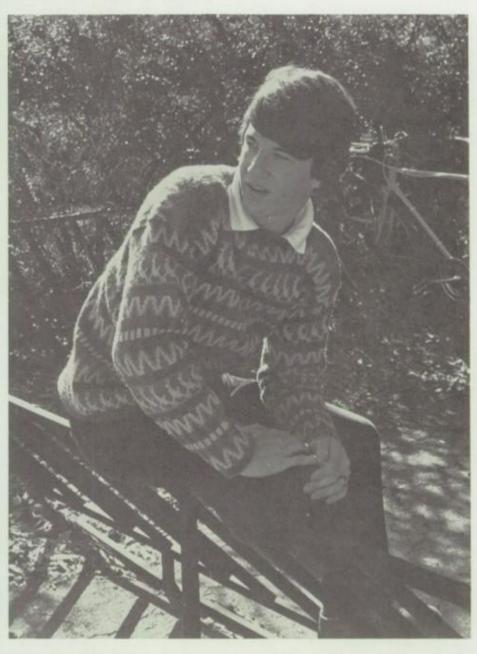

Dismayed by attendance, Student Body President Steve Ladson and Secretary Sput Presley comply with parliamentary procedure.

Debating on issue, Camille Williamson and Sherry Springfield converse in undertones.

Waiting on his ride to the Inter High Council meeting, Student Body Vice President Edward Stall pauses on "the rack."

During a winter Council meeting, Sgt.-at-Arms Billy Pepper troubleshoots.

Principal Max Skidmore carefully explains to Student Council members the reasons for and fact that GHS has mid-term exams.

Field Day becomes an annual event

Smash! Blop! Gulp! Coach Hopkins just got a pie right in the mouth! Wait a minute-Mrs. Owens is next. Oh no! Whipped cream in the nose! This could only happen at Field Day!

Here comes some of the Male Beauty Pageant Contestants. What names! There's Miss Pete's Pattie escorted by Pick 'em Up Paul and Miss Edie ARD escorted by Allen Take Advantage Of. Now all ten gorgeous contestants (well, they're not ugly) are lined up and waiting for that final decision. And the winner is ... Miss Gold Digger Gertie escorted by Grabber Glenn!

These are only a few examples of Field Day but don't forget the tricycle races around the second floor, pictures with Santa (portrayed by Clark King), the Witch Hunt, and many more exciting events. What a relief, Field Day only comes once a year!

Sleezy Sally, one of the GHS Male Beauty Pageant Contestants is escorted by Sly Sam on Field Day.

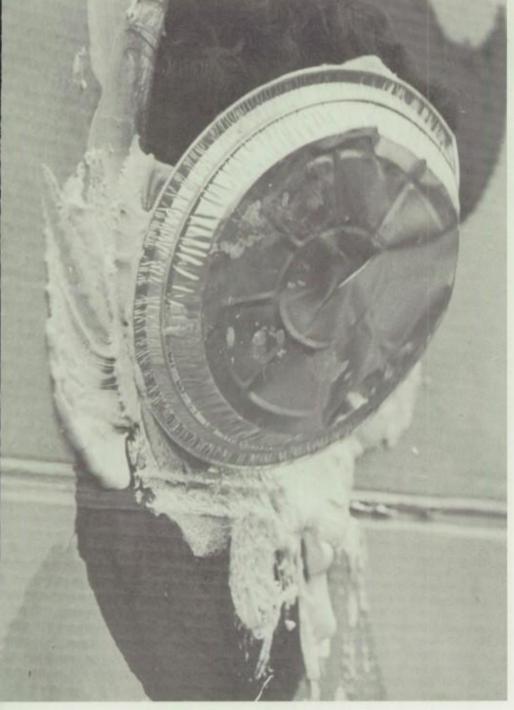

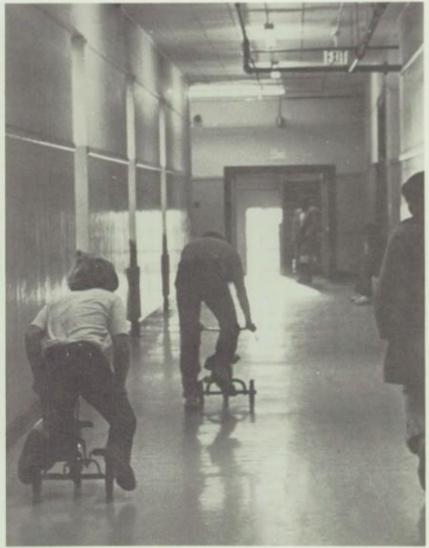

Fun for all is what Field Day provided.

"There's nothing like getting your picture taken on Santa's lap," exclaims GHS Male Beauty Pageant Winner.

A major event of Field Day was the trike races around the second floor.

The refreshment stand was a frequent stop made by students on Dec. 17th.

Students revenge on Chuck Evans as he gets (whipped) creamed.

Who said it couldn't be done?

With an energetic team of 12, planning for the Nautilus began as early as the summer preceding this school year.

A workshop held at Bonclarken Assembly was attended by two members of the staff the week of July 4th. Ideas in modern yearbook planning were obtained and incorporated into the production of the Nautilus from this workshop.

Major changes GHS students should be aware of include an addition of pages and color, a seasonal approach to the school's activities in chronological order and a coverage of summer pasttimes. Also the staff was largely concerned with establishing good overall student variety in this year's Nautilus.

Another was a race among homerooms to obtain 100% subscriptions. The first homeroom doing so received FREE Nautilus T-Shirts to each member of that homeroom.

An assembly program was also put on by the staff that included a slide show to give the students an idea of what was to be in the Nautilus.

Nautilus and High News Advisor Angie F. Prince gets ready for Field Day by filling balloons with helium.

Taking a minute out of his hectic schedule as Nautilus and High News photographer, Edward Stall poses for his own picture.

Being in charge of the Beauty Queens is one of Katy Kral's most important responsibilities as feature editor.

Everyone has to help out when it comes to typing. Here Faculty Editor April Meredith shows Activities Editor Donna Jones what to type for her section.

When things are down, Becky Goforth, copy editor, livens them up with her cute personality.

Checking to make sure they have all their supplies are Academics Editor Bitten Rouser and Class Editor Robin Scott.

"Ma" and "Pa" portrayed by Barbara Heape and Hank Williams were a big success at the Nautilus assembly program. Barbara is assistant copy editor and Hank is sports editor on the staff.

Business Manager Mary Andrews often spent fourth period doing errands for Mrs. Prince.

High News Staff coordinates football program

The Greenville High News, published bi-weekley, still remains a four-page issue despite the staff's beginning goal to have six pages. This was due mainly to financial difficulties. Approximately 400 students that subscribed last year subscribed this year, which made it hard on the staff's budget.

The staff worked hard each day to put out an informative and entertaining paper. If by any chance you passed by room 200 during fifth period you might hear some of the following remarks:

"Where's my layout sheet?" ... "We haven't got enough copy" .. "What's a good topic for an editorial?" . . . "Who has questions for the action box?" ... "Someone help me think of a good headline!" . . . "I sure hope we meet our deadline" ... Bring me a Big Mac and fries, somebody!" "Steve's trying to do something" ...

Standing up for the High News' beliefs in Student Council is Editor Leisa Cooper.

Making sure copy is typed correctly are Reporters Tommie Crane and Nellie Farnsworth.

Managing Editor Pam Thompson chooses stories for state competition.

Seing that Field Day activities went smoothly was a duty of Business Manager Kay Leonard.

Thinking of stories isn't always so easy as News Editor Sarah Huntington sits and meditates.

Being Sports Editor has its advantages as Steve Adams helps coach junior powderpuff team.

Associate Editors Lane Duffie, Terrance Brooks, Kay Boyd and Rebecca Haynes are responsible for various jobs on the High News staff.

"This glue just won't stick, Mrs. Prince," remarks Haskell Avery, feature editor.

Parents supply Spirit, support

Many GHS students' parents got just as involved as the students did this year. Presiding over the Booster Club as president was Charles S. Bell. Getting parents involved into such activities as selling license plates at the football games was one of Mr. Bell's main goals.

Supporting parents are always welcomed at the sports events cheering their sons or daughters on to victory.

Open House sponsored by the PSTA organization encouraged parents to get to know their kids' teachers and to give money in support of the February Fourth Referendum. They also were concerned with enrichment of the study halls by having movies and speakers.

Serving as officers for the PTSA were Miriam Dupuy, president; Trudy Daisley, first vice president; Tomasina Jones, second vice president; Janice Sabb, secretary; and Ben Leonard, treasurer.

Presenting a pleased look on her face after a "swish" from David is bystander Mrs. Donnelly.

English teacher Susan Kee seems to be doing just fine with the parents at her first open house.

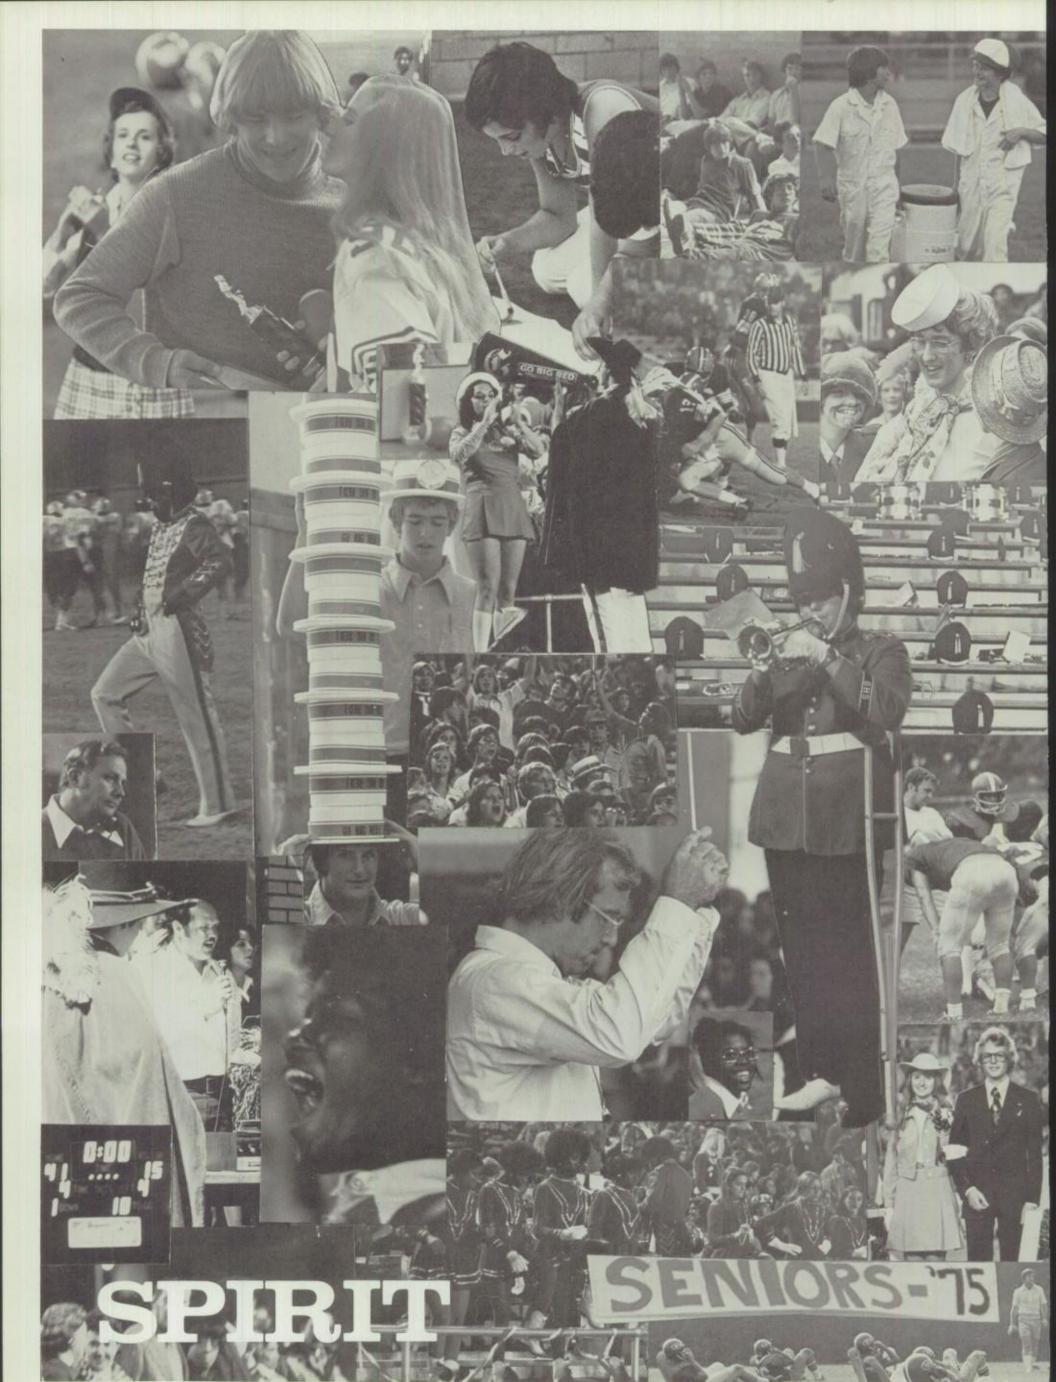

An avid Raider supporter who just can't seem to stay away is Skip Lindler.

Representing the Proffitt family at the football banquet is Earl Proffitt.

Explaining about report card procedure to a concerned parent is Chuck Evans, history teacher.

Team + spirit equals victory

It's a bird! It's a plane! No! It's Lee Smith charging down the field faster than a speeding bullet! ... "That's right! Burn that # * * & # * * & Mann Patriot!" ... # We've got the spirit; now you get some Head varsity cheerleader, Julie Huskey, leads the pep section in a cheer at a football game.

Barbara Atkins and Sharman Gleason, varsity cheerleaders, discuss plans to decorate Sirrine Stadium.

Varsity cheerleaders, Ann Rigby and Paula Gambrell, add spirit to the game.

The Raiders loss to Hanna upsets Sharman Gleason.

At a JV game cheerleaders Suzy Kraft, April Meredith, Lisa Smith, Jill Taylor, and Kim Lossman, step up the action.

Taking a break between cheers, Red Raider Jerry Lumpkin gets a glimpse of the game.

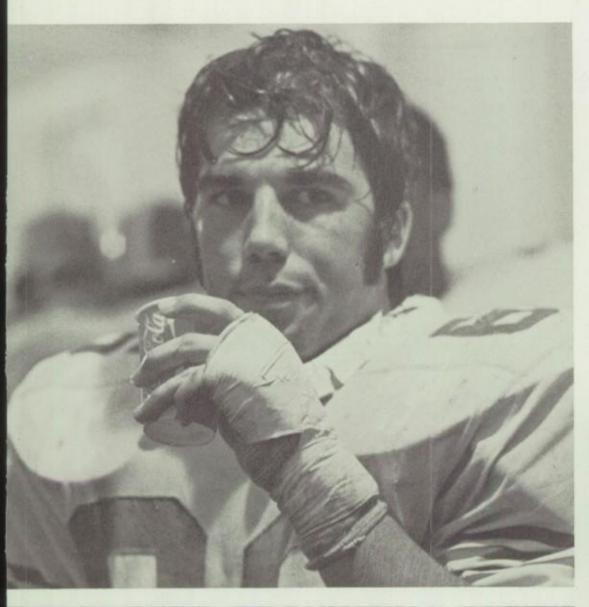

Junior Varsity cheerleaders, Tracy Gilbert, Jill Taylor, Jeannie Anderson, Emily Bowers, and head cheerleader, Suzy Kraft, cheer the Raiders to victory.

Throughout the football season varsity cheerleaders Shawn Marret, Belinda Bolden, Ann Tucker, Vicki Dobson, and mascots, Amy and Nancy Farr, help kindle a fiery spirit.

"What a difference a coke makes at halftime!"

With high steps Iris Zaharris prepares for the Freshmen-Sophomore powder puff game.

Steve Ladson turns upfield after hauling in a pass at a scrimmage game.

Red Raiders-city and county champions . .

Just give it all you've got! Give one hundred and fifty percent and you'll be winners! You got to suck it up honey . . .

Being a winner is important, you don't want it any other way. Winning is sweet. As was once said, "the winners share the spoils of victory!"

Greenville High's Raider Football team is one again a winner. The City and County Champions, we beat Parker, Mann, and Wade Hampton in the regular season. Behind the school this year our team won three scrimmages out of the three we played. Injured, courageous, quick, and small the team went on to another great season! Let's GO BIG RED!!!

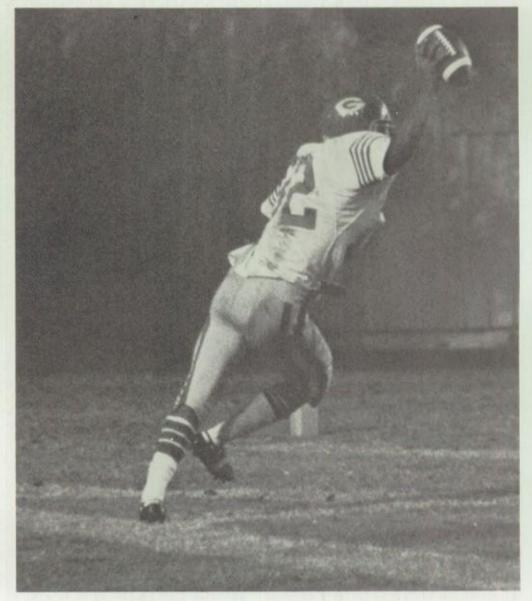

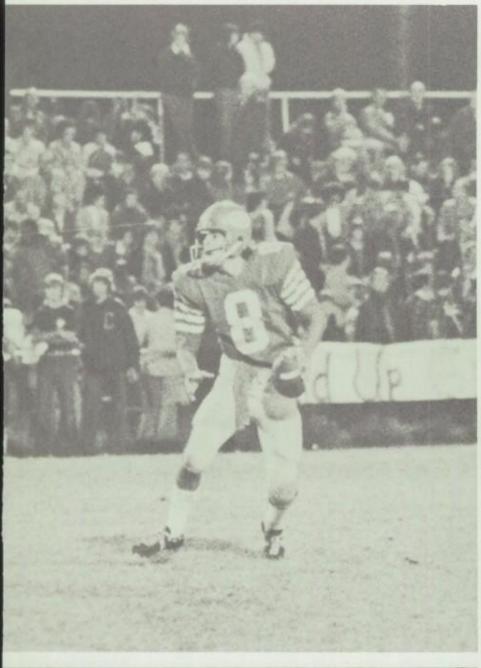

Norwood McBee triumphantly raises the ball after scoring his first TD of the season.

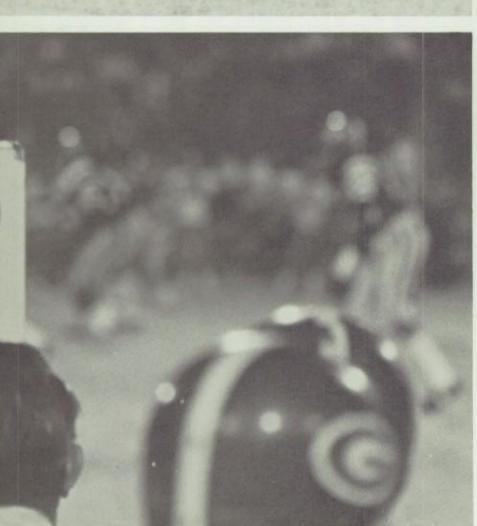

Jimmy Mungo carefully listens to locker room talk during halftime.

Setting up to pass, Robbie Bell has clear sight of his receiver.

From the sidelines Rusty Harrison watches the first quarter action.

Against T.L. Hanna, the Raider defense stands poised for action.

Who says all the action is on the field?

Watching the game, playing around, getting psyched up in the locker room, or even holding the chains are all activities surrounding football season.

Fall brings the changing of leaves and the coming of football. Dedicated athletes end up summer vacation and buckle down to the upcoming year. Football arrives...

Filled stands, busy concession booths, and kids sliding down the steep banks surrounding Sirrine Stadium are all parts of the Friday night grid action.

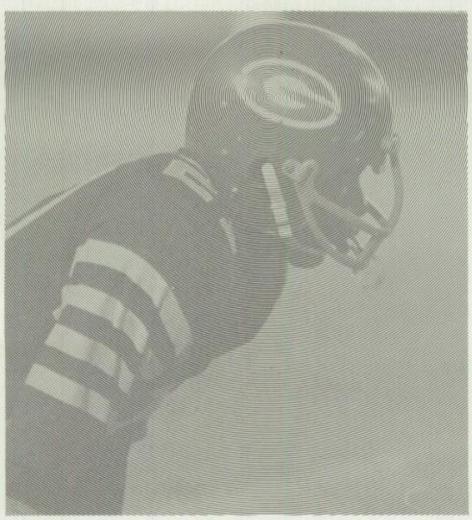

Before the game, back at 'ole GHS, nervous football players begin getting ready. Ankles are taped, socks are stretched on the overhanging pipes, and the "melodious" voice of "Doc" can be heard clearly outside—"Reid, get your !°%?#° in here PDQ!"

Everybody hates the smell of "Doc's" cigars!!

Varsity football players "ham" it up, but where's the ball?

Anxiously awaiting the opening kickoff against Hanna, Erskine Taylor plans his move.

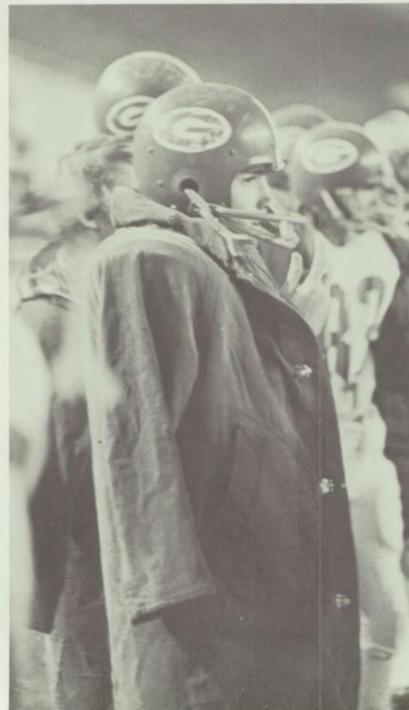

Prior to the action at Sirrine Stadium, Marty Gilbert adjusts his shoulder pads.

Ricky Phillips and David Smith keep the chains at a JV game.

Senior Mark Taylor watches the action in the last home game of the season.

Locker room is essential for improvemen

"We're #1 ... Go beat the "'&\$#"%&'() out of 'em ... "You've got to be a greedy sob out there! Have a coke ... want an orange?" Such are the sounds heard in the locker room. Some phrases are good, others not so good, yet all serve one purpose—to make the team better! Learn from your mistakes.

All football teams can be better. A team is made in the locker room. Mistakes are known—no compliments! "You dumb "&-%" $! Can't you learn contain? Defensive ends have a lot of responsibility. Everyone has responsibility. If everyone does his job, what can go wrong?"

In a locker room a player learns what he is doing wrong and what they are doing right!

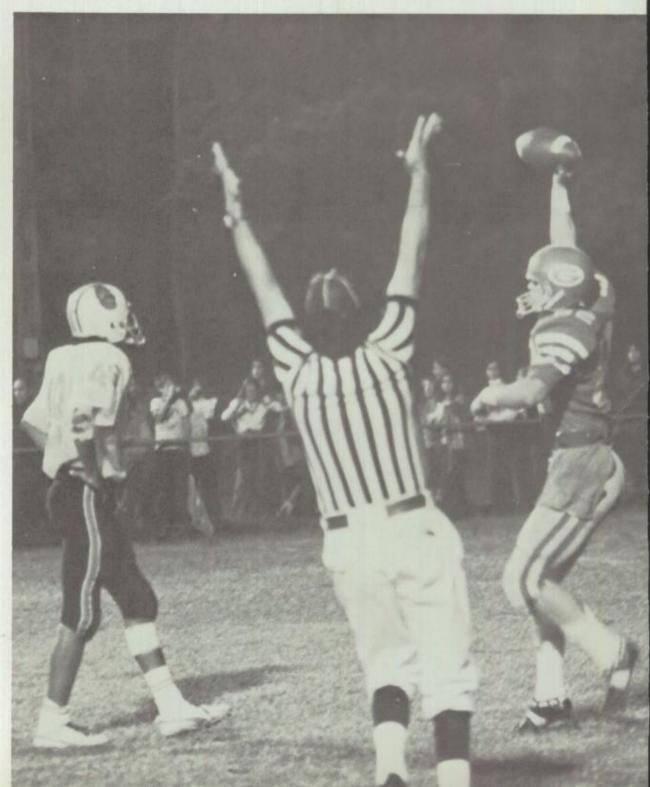

The Red Raiders get fired up before the game.

During Halftime, Danny Jackson talks over his defensive assignments.

The triumph of victory versus the agony of defeat.

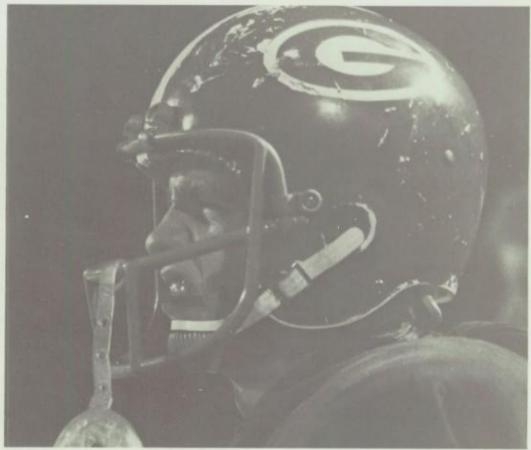

John Bennett fights for yardage after getting crushing blockage from Norwood McBee.

Intently watching the action, coaches Hall, Bowers, Hopkins, and Fisher show their stoic quality.

Eyeing the action, Kyle Bailey grimaces on the sidelines.

Quarterback Robbie Bell cuts upfield on option play.

JV'S learn what it takes to be Varsity

"Go Baby Raiders! Robinson! Let's go Saad . . . Butt his "'&-"% up! Stick him-go through him . . . drive, drive, drive!"

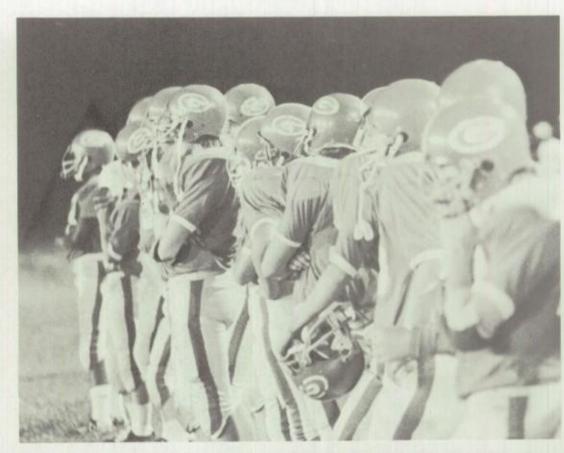

J.V. football is a learning process. You've got to learn your basic fundamentals before you can have a winning football team.

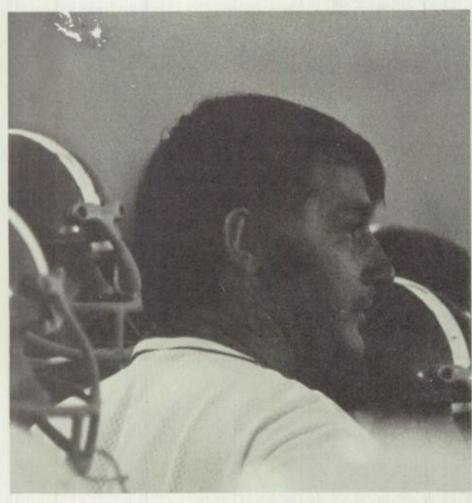

Coach Malcom Singleton coaches J.V. football for two reasons: to get players ready for Varsity, and to have a great season.

J.V. brings out talents never seen before and sometimes sophomores get to play Varsity but one usually plays J.V. in the ninth and tenth grades.

J.V. ball gets one really fired up to finally make it to the big time—Varsity football. J.V. football is simply a lot of hard work!

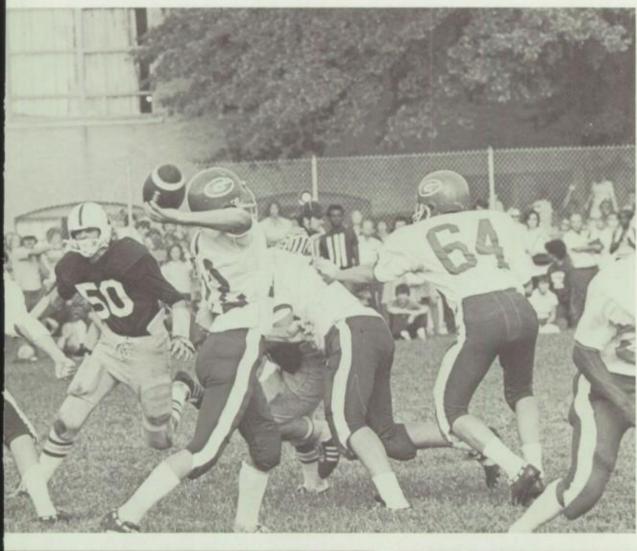

The Baby Raiders watch the action from the sidelines.

Quarterback David Stapleton passes while the line gives good protection.

"Thermos" Hughes covers up in his rain coat to keep warm.

Charlie Saad thinks the Baby Red are number one!

"We've come a long way, baby"

"Come on girls, we'll show everyone what playing football is really like! ... Why do they insist on calling this powderpuff? ... What an insulting program!" Christ Church scrimmage-how could they have one won if no one kept score? Dedication and hard work is all it takes. "We didn't come to practice just to stare at the coaches . . . They worked us hard . . . Those seniors look so big! . . . Where'd the Wade Hampton recruits come from? ... Somebody just got racked . . . Hey coach. There hitting too hard ... What play are we on now? . . . I don't know what I'm doing! . . . Which team are you on? . . . I can't wait to take a hot bath!"

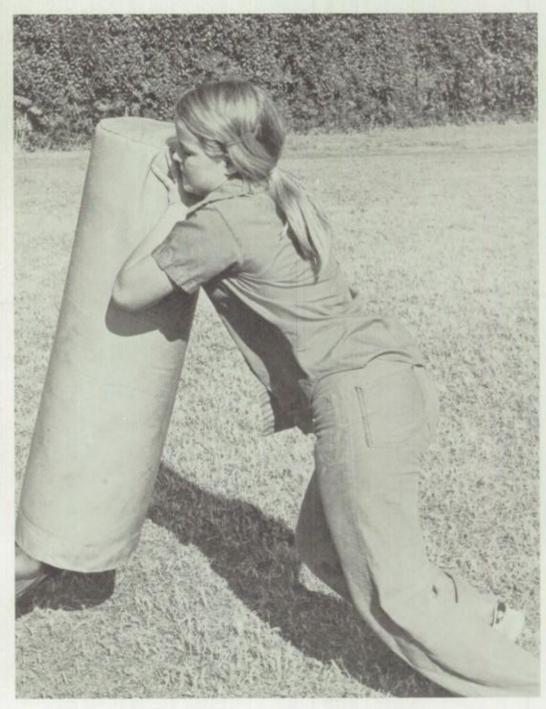

Paula Gambrell lies in agony from a knee injury in the Jr.-Sr. Powderpuff game.

Jill Taylor practices with the freshmen powderpuff team.

Freshman Roxanne Hickey executes her blocking form on the sled.

During the game, Junior coach Pat Erwin finds it necessary to argue where the line is.

Senior bench watches the action while Edward Stall takes photos for the High News.

Belinda Bolden turns the corner for extra yardage for the Junior team.

Committee donates Christmas tree

Sponsoring the annual canned goods drive was the main duty of the Community and School Actions committee, chaired by Edward Stall. Also, this committee was responsible for obtaining and decorating the tremendous Christmas tree that was in the cafeteria.

Voting machines were used for the first time at GHS by the Elections committee. "These machines provided a more accurate way to handle class and student body elections," replied Davis Taylor, chairman.

Teachers were aided by trained projectionists who were members of the Audio Visual committee when they themselves couldn't operate the projectors. One Wednesday every month this committee showed feature length movies in the auditorium with a 15 admission charge.

Bill Haney helps decorate the Christmas tree donated by the Community and School Actions committee.

Secret balloting made class elections more professional.

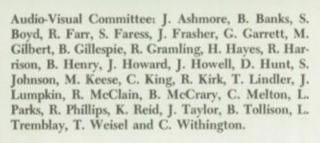

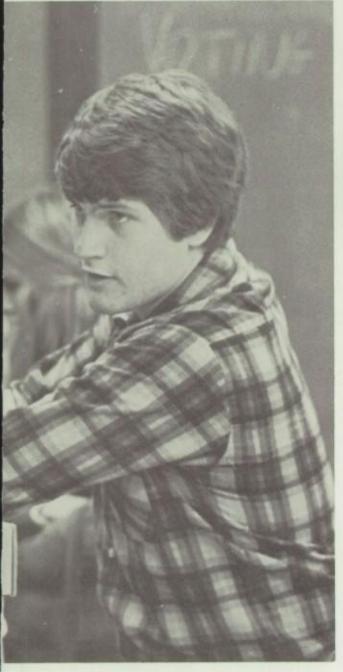

Chairman of the Publicity committee, Kit Hughes eagerly awaits recruits for her committee.

Davis Taylor, chairman of the Elections committee, shows students how to operate the voting booths.

Students won't keep lunchroom clean

Selling milks and milkshakes, serving food, and keeping the lunchroom straight were the main duties of the cafeteria committee.

"Ding ding dong ... Good morning students" became a familiar sound to GHS students as the Radio committee performed its daily duties. John Stertz, Clark King and David Rogers shared the responsibility of the morning announcements. This committee also attempted to reduce class interruptions under the direction of Dr. Al Reed.

Planning functions of GHS athletic teams was the job of the Athletic Committee headed by Julie Huskey. One of their projects was to have a ski party for the football team.

Paper and or Etc., the school bookstore, opened every morning for the sale of school supplies. This store, along with a lost and found department were operated by the Student Service committee chaired by Heidi Anderson.

Cafeteria committee members play with their "sunbeam" hats between lunch shifts.

John Stertz, Radio committee chairman, takes charge of the announcements during homeroom.

"Remember Field Day? Well it's an annual event now. Trike races, Mr. GHS beauty pageant and pie throwing victims such as Mr. Freeman, Coach Hopkins, Coach Fisher (I'm going to get you), Miss Ellison and Mr. McHargue."

Painting banners is often done after school by Athletic committee members Jerry Lumpkin and Barbara Atkins.

Who works over the holidays?

Christmas holidays were brief for the Property committee who polished all trophies and their cases. Co-chairman Edward Stall, Sput Presley, Catherine Rogers, and Russell Stall made up the entire committee, who also cleaned the school grounds and livened up room 100.

Checking violators of the Senior parking lot was the responsibility of the Traffic Safety committee. Chairman Norwood Mcbee led this committee in their endeavors.

The social committee, headed by Sherry Robinson, sponsored several dances including a Christmas extravaganza.

Assembly committee's basic purpose was to entertain the student body. Two of the assemblies that stood out in students' minds were the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies.

Billy Pepper, chairman of the Human Relations committee, led his group through the year. Officer elections took place in early fall and plans were made for the coming year under advisors Raven Mersereau and Bill Johnson.

Members of the Property committee helped polish trophies over the Christmas holidays.

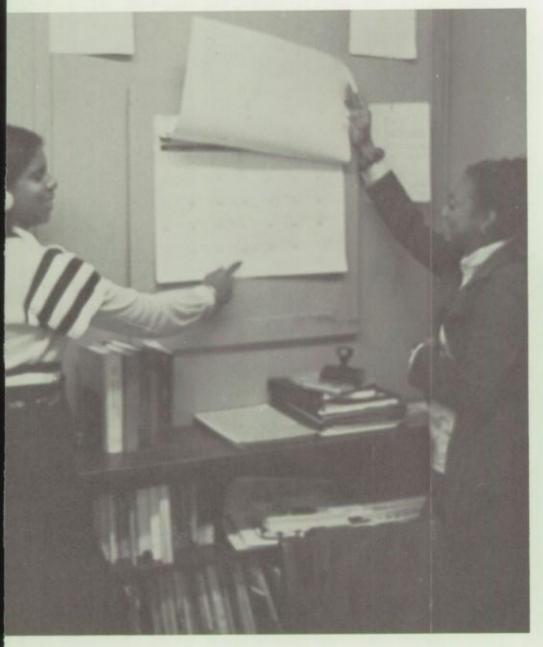

Chairman of the Traffic Safety committee Mike McBee doesn't seem to know what happened to his Senior parking lot sticker.

Social committee members enjoy serving for the PTSA open house.

Checking Mrs. Caro Wofford's calender has to be done first before events can be planned by assemblies.

New officers were elected to the Human Relations Committee for 74-75

Ideas for assemblies usually originated right here in the committee's discussions.

Cut class legally—why not?

GHS chorus and band provided the entertainment for the Christmas assembly.

A bit rusty, but still kickin', are "Ma" and "Pa' while looking back on one of their old Nautiluses.

Gymnastic stunts take skill and effort as an Eastside High School gymnist demonstrates.

It's true—go to an assembly and see if you get turned in for skipping? Of course, you won't. These programs are for the students' benefit and are encouraged by the administration to give the students an occasional "break" in their daily academic routines.

In fact, this year the GHS Assembly Committee sponsored several assemblies that have never been done before.

One of these was the assembly program put on by the Nautilus staff, its purpose being to get students involved in their yearbook. Slides and skits that were presented provided a most entertaining program.

Another first in assemblies was the one put on by the Eastside High School Gymnastics Team. This assembly naturally was done in the gym.

The Thanksgiving and Christmas Assemblies featured such characters as "Archie Bunker" and Bob Farmsworth; while the Beauty Queen Pageant featured the distinguished John T. Freeman

If nothing else, 74-75 at GHS was indeed a year of entertainment.

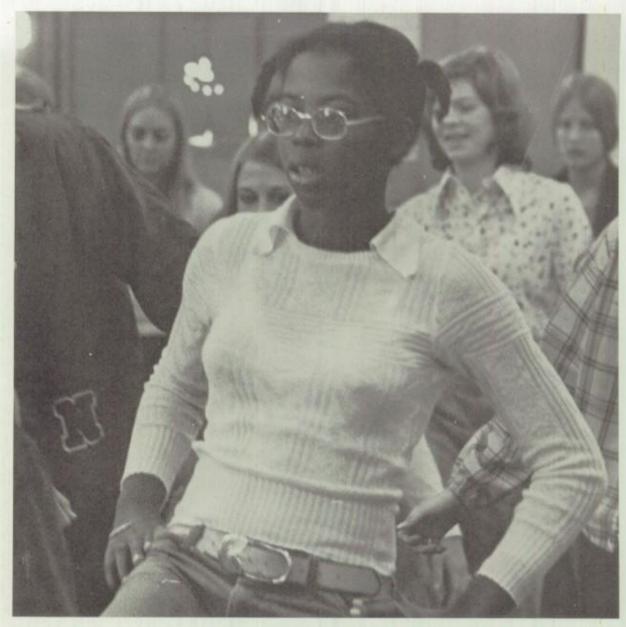

The leg has to be arched just right in order to balance oneself on the beam.

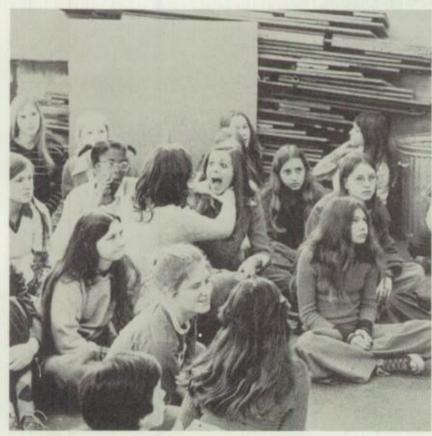

Audio Visual Committee Members worked hard along with the Nautilus staff to get ready for the yearbook assembly.

Women strive toward identity

With an emphasis on coordination, balance, tension, and endurance, the Self-Defense Club, taught by Angie Prince, enlisted 80 girls. The more dedicated ones met twice a week to jog around the track. Tired muscles ... a little more common sense ... and knowledge that an ounce of prevention and confidence is all it takes. Continuing the goals set by the National Organization for Women, Bonnie Steussy established the Feminist Club to create an awareness in female students of their own identity and potential as women. Lectures ... a theatre production ... meetings at the local chapter of NOW ... and a realization that "You've got a right to feel proud of yourself. You know where you're going and how to get there. So don't stop now."

With hands on hips, Deborah Dial attempts a front stretch kick.

Self-defense club members learn to break a choking hold and get choked in the meantime.

Princess Peters performs a pantomine "Glad to have a friend like you" during feminist Club.

Reciting a poem Theresa Gillespie tells the club about where husbands meet beautiful lawyers and professors.

Demonstrating prevention of front attacks, Lisa Ingram blocks Caroline Tollison's approach

Three Feminist Club members appear amused over material on the "housewife extraordinaire".

Instructing the Defense Club in exercises, advisor—Angie Prince is amazed at the lack of coordination.

Fine Arts Club originates

A program offered at GHS this year for interested students is the Fine Arts program which gave the student an opportunity to take drama, ballet, and art and get high school credit for them.

The Fine Arts Club is a small division of this curriculum for these students to participate in on the various club days.

Advised by Chuck Evans, the Sports Predicting Club predicted scores of leading college sports games according to the particular season.

Object d' Art is what was emphasized in the Art Club such as special cloth waxing called batiking and other processes for student interest.

Needlepoint is an interesting hobby as learned in the Needlecraft Club. You just have to be taught properly and it's a cinch! Another project experimented with was crocheting, which is a little harder than needlepoint but just as fun.

Before using their cameras, the Camera Club had to learn the basics of photography. Porter Smith, a new teacher at GHS, was the advisor for this club.

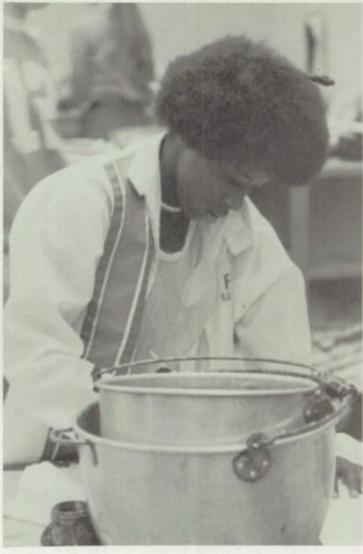

Fine Arts Center drama students Jeannie Smith and Randy Kirk give a dramatic interpretation.

Chuck Evans gives the Sports Predicting Club its list of games to predict.

Wendell Watson dips his waxed cloth in dye in a batiking process.

Making a color wheel takes time.

Ninth grade student creates a wood sculpture from scraps and Elmer's glue.

Photography Club members listen attentively to Porter Smith's instructions.

Joan Whitehurst explains the fundamentals of crocheting to one of her club members.

Yum yum smells good!

FHA is the national organization of girls and boys who study homemaking in high school. As an integral part of the homemaking program, FHA provides opportunities for students to have additional experiences in planning and carrying out related activities.

The Health Careers Club explores opportunities available in health professions and occupations. Speakers came and visited the club and they in return went to see local health related organizations.

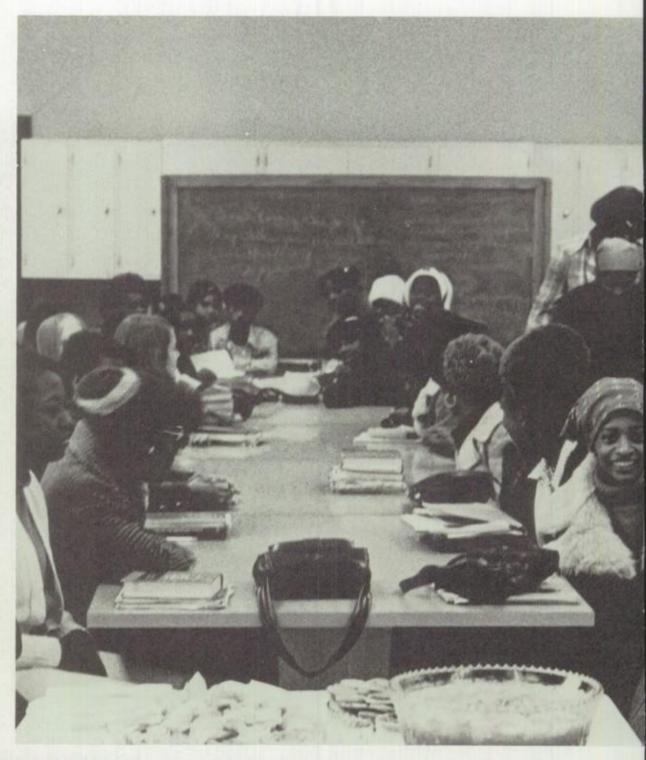

Authorities from Greenville Tec and the Greenville Memorial Hospital spoke to the club on radiology and health careers.

Tours to the Greenville County Health Department, the Roger C. Peace Rehabilitation Institute and the Hollis Child Development Center were also taken.

Discussing foods, spices, cooking procedures and restaurants are the main aspects of the Gourmet Club. A trip to Capri's ended the year in a delightful manner.

FHA members are anxious to begin their Christmas party.

Having Burger King whoppers isn't always on the menu for FHA members Linda Cunningham and Mona Hunter.

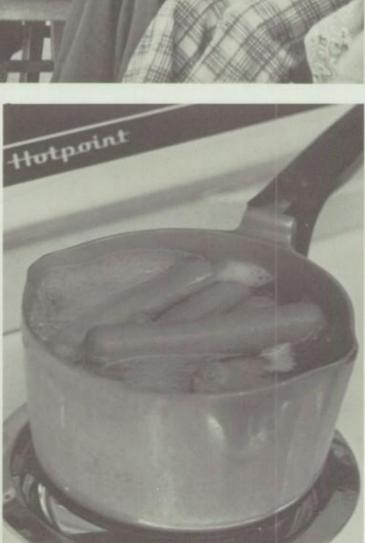

Interested in one of their speakers are five Health Career Club members.

Making cooking fun are Toni Mitchell, Gloria Lyles, and Doris Robinson.

Don't they look tasty?

Dramatists present 'ghostly' atmosphere

Combining with the Thespian Society, the Drama Club met both during its club period and after school. The two plays performed for the public were "Blithe Spirit" and "Wait Until Dark."

Special field trips gave the club members experience in the theatre and a chance to compete on state level at the conventions in Rock Hill and Charlotte.

Club meetings included showing scenes from "Blithe Spirit," collecting the $5.50 dues, giving Thespian invitation procedures, voting on plays, sponsoring committee sign-ups, explaining make-up techniques, and inducting new Thespian members.

The Music Club gave students the opportunity to prepare each month's program under the leadership of Dana Hall, chorus teacher.

Buenos Amigos is the name given the Spanish club. At Christmas time they broke a pinata full of candy. This act is an old Spanish-Mexican custom. In April the club enjoyed a Spanish meal of tacos and guacamole dip. Their club period was mainly spent playing Spanish games.

"Blithe Spirit" provided students with a delightful entertainment of ghosts and things.

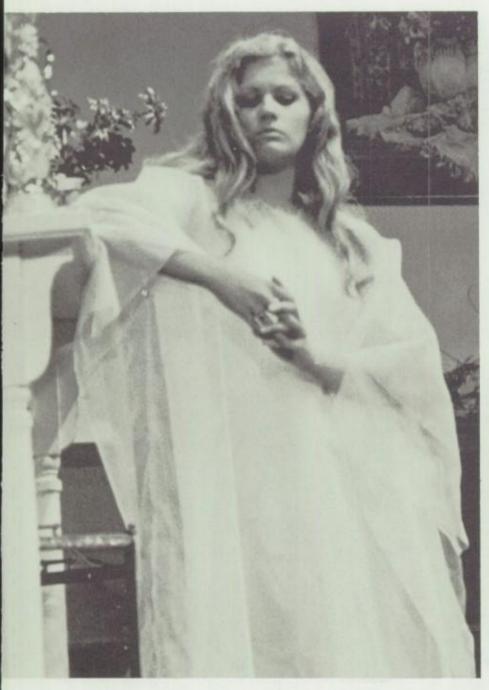

Laurie Wilson and Connie Burgess engage in a singalong with the chorus.

No, Joanie Bright's not sick, just experimenting with the make-up for one of the ghosts in "Blithe Spirit."

Presenting a ghostly appearance is Senior Terry Roach in her role as "Ruth."

Seeing that the Spanish Christmas display stays intact are Rosalian Abraham and Beth Gwinn.

Orchestra members practiced many hours.

Accompanied by Mrs. Clements, the Music Club sang most of their club days.

Clubs on the academic side

The Math Club concentrated mostly on involving themselves with the fun elements of math, such as Topology, W'ff N'Proof, Networks, and Geodesic Domes.

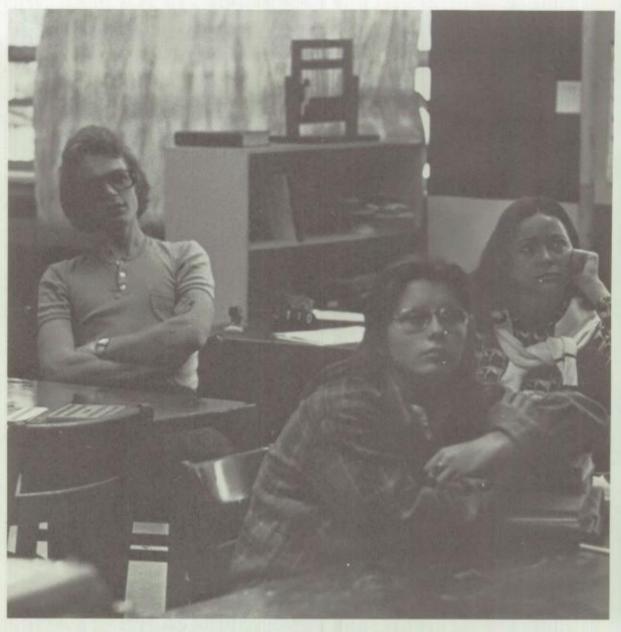

Student assistants who work in the library made up the membership of the Library Club. Parties and picnics, both during Christmas and in the spring, provided the club with an excessive amount of entertainment.

Attending the State Convention of Library Assistants in Columbia, having a library clean-up, showing film strips on library information, and visiting the Greenville County Library were on the club's agenda for the year.

The Science Club is affiliated with the South Carolina Junior Academy of Science and the Junior Engineering Technical Society to promote the study of science and related fields and to provide an outlet for scientific research.

JCL's purpose is to expose Latin students to other subjects related to the study of Latin.

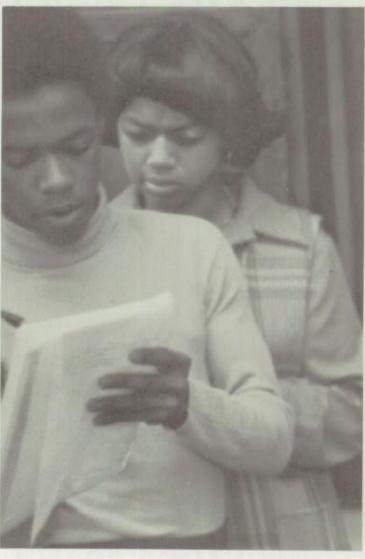

Sandy Smith and Andy Earle seem confused by the concepts of math while exchange student Matti Rautalahti seems to understand.

Discussing their plans for the Library Science Club are Mary Alice Witters and Betty Atwood.

Making sure Napoleon McDaniel does the lab report correctly in Science Club period is Sherri Robinson.

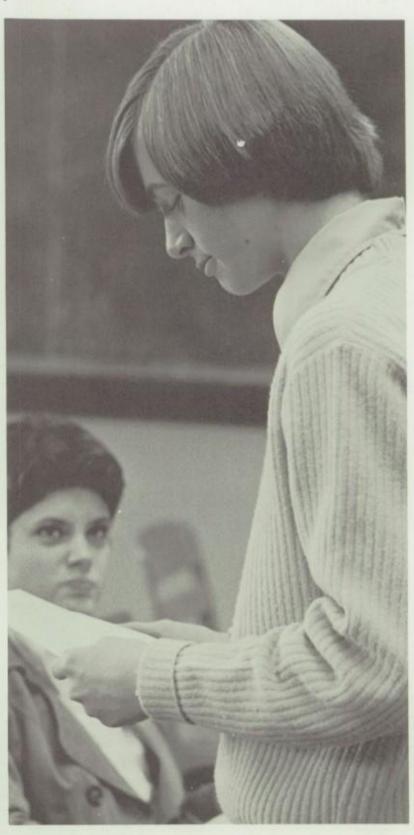

Tasting Greek food seems to be a unique part of the Junior Classical League.

Reading over his report for a JCL meeting is Scott Johnson.

Junior Academy Science members seem to get a kick out of experimenting with the Van de Graaf generator.

Clubs extend to national level

Selling candles as ideal Christmas gifts was sponsored by the Future Business Leaders of America Club. In February and March planning began for their trip to the State Leadership Conference in Columbia.

Field trips to the state DECA Convention in Columbia and to the Merchandising Mart in Atlanta helped kick off the year for the GHS Distributive Education Club of America. The club's activities included preparing for district, state and national competitions.

Banquets, Upper State Fair, and National FFA Week exhibits and conventions were on the agenda for the Future Farmers of America Club members. Representing GHS, the club placed second in the National Ornamental Horticulture contest, received the State Governor's Citation for BOAC work, and accepted one gold chapter emblem and two silver emblems in the BOAC and one silver emblem in chapter safety.

April Cisson presides over one of the FBLA's meetings.

DECA Club members often had refreshments during their club hour.

April Cissom seems amused by a remark made by Advisor Gladys Perrin during the FBLA Club period.

FFA members Doug Jordan and Rusty Farr are getting to explain some of their club's rules to members.

Advertising can be fun, too, as demonstrated by two DECA members Lorraine Davis and Sally Boyd.

Hobby clubs are fun

Open to all students is the Afro American Club, which is concerned with a study of black history and tries to improve relationships between peers and teachers alike. During Brotherhood week, the club sponsored one presentation open to the public.

Playing bridge (and in the leaves) is about all the Bridge Club, advised by Mrs. Barbar had time for this year during their club periods.

The Block G Club is open to all students who have earned a block G letter in any varsity sport, although the club's membership was dominated by male athletes.

The Chess Club offers an opportunity for knowledgeable players to practice their old chess skills and learn new ones. Using a scoring method the club established rank in playing ability among the members.

Being challenged by Wade Hampton's Chess Club led to our chess team playing various matches against other schools.

Interesting subjects are often discussed in the Afro American Club.

Mrs. Barber gives a few hints about bridge to Julie McCrary.

Checking over the competition sheet for the top chess player is Ann Hester and the Chess Club.

Two Block G Club members, David Smith and Mac Perry listen intently to advisor Coach Fred Bowers.

The Block G Club is usually seen clowning around.

Trying to bluff out her bridge partners is Senior Margurite Carpenter.

Theresa Neal seems eager to get the Afro American meeting underway.

Sophomores begin year with "old pro" feeling

As our sophomores enter their second year at GHS, many conversations take place:

"What's this? Looks like a submarine! What the heck are those rusty water pipes doing here?"

"Oh quit complaining and come on. We pick up our schedules in the lunchroom."

"Oh all right! Hey, here comes Sharon. What's happening? How's it been going?"

"Okay I guess, what'd you expect with school starting. Got your schedule yet?"

"Yeah, man it's a bummer. Look who I have for Geometry!"

"I sure feel sorry for you. Guess what? I heard we're in the same English class.

"All right! Are you going out for cheerleader this year?"

"Sure am. Did you know Willie got his head shaved?"

"No, if it looks as bad as Martha Lou's new shag, we should take up a collection for wigs!"

"Do you think we'll have any bomb threats this year?"

Elected as sophomore class officers were Darrell Hill, president, Jean Simmons, vice president, Lynda Burch, secretary and Janice Williams, treasurer.

Bryan Anderson Jeannie Anderson Angela Arnold Renee Aspray Robbie Aspray Gwen Ballentine

Why do sophomores rarely have study halls?

But being a sophomore isn't all bad listen to what some have to say about tenth grade life:

"Oh, the chance to call someone else "freshman" . . .

"Knowing that you're not new to Greenville High but part of the routine" ... "No more running to class late from gym" ... "No more middle of the year activities" ...

"Having more power over the freshmen in powderpuff football"... "Working and raising $90 for our class from a carwash"... "One more year to go before the Junior-Senior"...

"Putting up with Silas Marner" ...

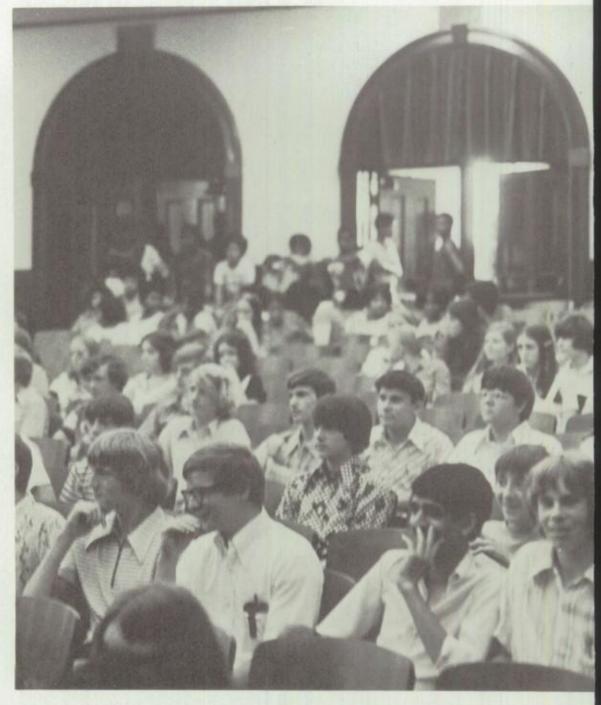

"Two more years to go til we can park in the Senior parking lot" ... "Having a little seniority over the freshman class" ... "Not being the youngest at Greenville High"

"Getting Biology over with" ...

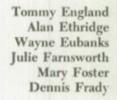

"Being eligible to take beginning Journalism" ... "Having the oldest cheerleaders and football players on the Jayvee's" ...

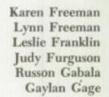

"Knowing our way, at last, around the school" ... "Starting to fill positions around GHS" ... "Taking on responsibilities for the first time."

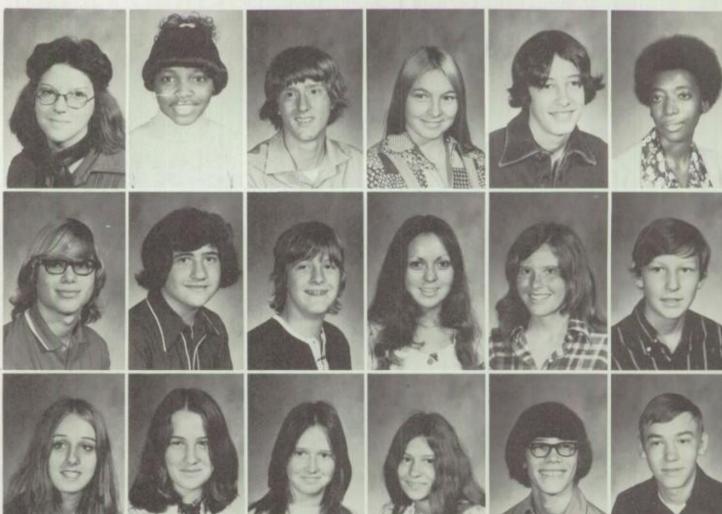

The sophomores had a good overall attendance on orientation day.

Sophomores look forward to an exciting year

No longer the youngest at Greenville High, sophomores replaced the feeling of insecurity with an air of confidence. By the time second semester arrived, there were no more "ropes of the trade" to learn but a lot of New Year's resolutions to keep.

"How'd Your vacation go?"
"Okay, but too many parties."

"Looks like my classes are gonna be all right. They're not half as bad as I thought they'd be."

"Yeah? Mine too. Turns out my geometry class will probably be my best class. Everyone's in there."

"I have six study halls again. But there's no one in my classes. But my lunch shift is great! Guess who I sat with?"

"Either-"

"No, that new girl. All she talked about was how good her haircut looked. Boy!"

"Common! She's not that bad."

"I guess not. Well, when you get down to it, everyone seems a lot nicer. Well-almost everyone."

"Something tells me things are going to be a lot different this year."

"Yeah? How?"

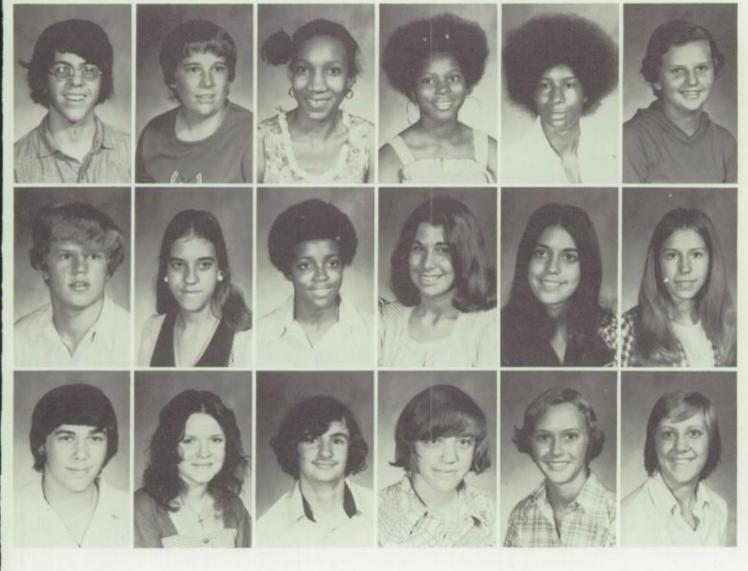

"More friends, better classes and MORE freedom and responsibility."

I gotta hand it to you-you're cool."

"Yeah, guess I am. Come on, let's go home."

As the year comes to an end the sophomores look forward to being "big" juniors

"I sure am glad this year's over." "Next year we get to go to the Junior-Senior. I already know what I want my dress to look like" ... "Just two more years and we get Senior privileges" ... "We're gonna smear the Seniors next year in powderpuff" ... "I heard eleventh grade wasn't as hard as tenth. I'm going to make all A's too" ... "I'm glad I got Geometry and Biology over with this year" ... "Hey, hey, hey! We're going to have guys on the varsity" ... "I can't wait till next year!" ... "Sophomores, you're not getting older, you're getting better!"

"I Can't Believe These Prices"

Inflation is hitting us hard, isn't it? When you go in a store and find something you think is beautiful the price tag makes it not so pretty. But some things are necessities, for example, clothes, everybody has to have them (or go naked) when you go to buy them you ask yourself—"Why did Adam and Eve have to eat that stupid apple?"—we wouldn't need clothes if they hadn't!

Then walking in a grocery store is even worse! Meat and vegetables, which you need for good health, costs over a dollar a pound. Then sugar costing over $2.00 for 5 lbs. It's ridiculous! Well maybe one of these days we'll lick our price problems.

At least there's one thing that hasn't gone up and that the price of our NAU-TILUS and even the quality has gone up instead of down like most things. So you should be proud of yourself. You made a pretty good deal buying your NAUTILUS! Don't you think so?

Students enjoy a typical day in the library.

"We don't use no double negatives"

"I lost my term paper" . . . "I have to go to the health room" . . . "We have too much homework!" These are the complaints Greenville High School English teachers are faced with each day. It's no wonder that an occasional "Shut-up" is yelled.

The English Department consists of many new courses this year, such as; Developmental Reading, a course designed for upper classmen to help students develop speed and comprehension with emphasis placed on study skills. Then you have your basic English such as composition courses, American Literature, etc. Composition is basically a class where students express their feelings into words. These words are in various forms such as so for study of the writings of famous authors from the past.

Teachers may be faced with such questic s as "Mrs. Prince, did Wordsworth really have at llegitimate daughter?" But English isn't all bard work, there are some good times too such as class debates, jokes, paper airplanes, field trips, and an occasional speaker.

"Mrs. Payne, is Shakespeare German or French?"

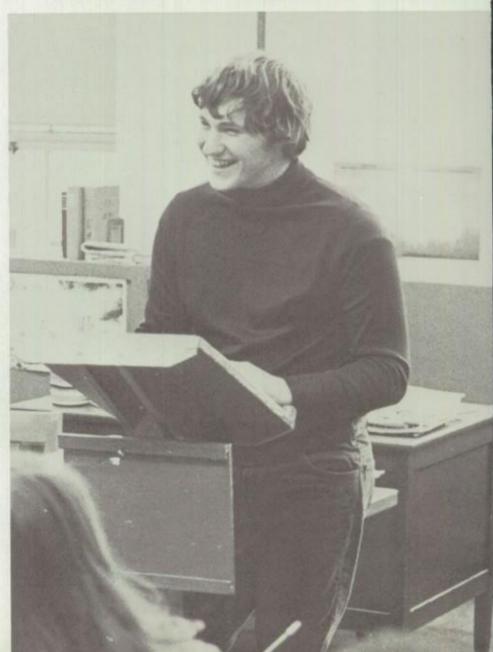

Jim McCutchen prepares with standardized study guides as I awaits for lecture to begin in Lee Madrazo's history class.

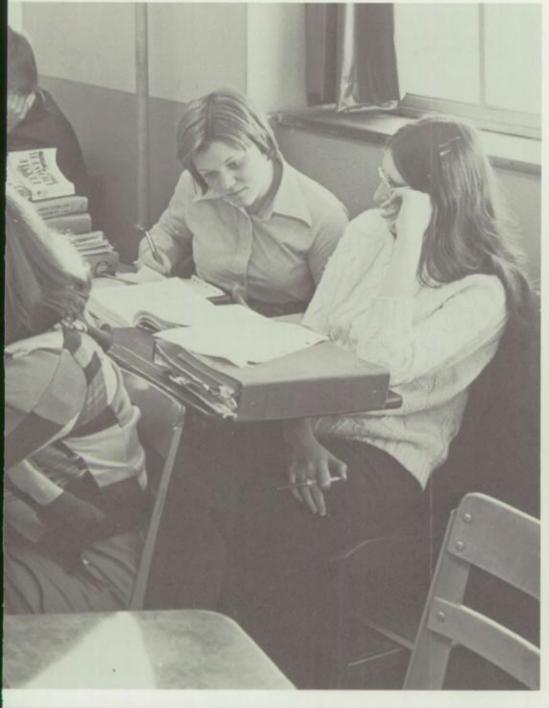

Calvin Baker and John Woody seem temporarily uninvolved with class.

Steve Madison finds it difficult to give a speech while having his picture taken.

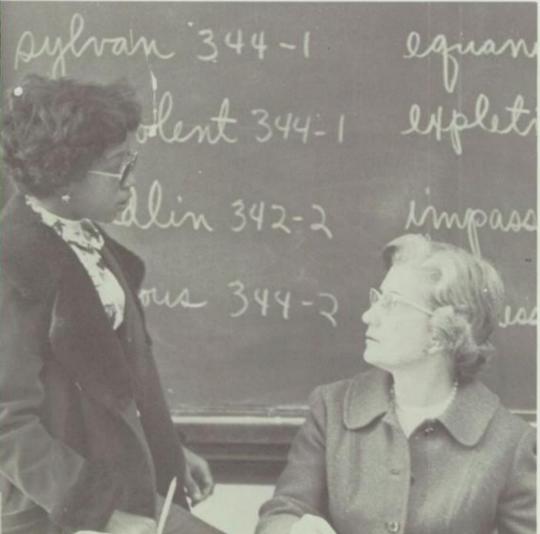

While sharing Marsha Branham's textbook, Nancy Hamilton finishes her classwork.

Class isn't quite as amusing to Brian Smith as it is to Mike Byears.

Jimmy Farr listens as a substitute explains Mrs. Paynes' assignment.

Felica Ligon expresses a problem to Miss Parks during class.

Did Einstein take Algebra?

Mathematics range from basic to advanced studies. General Math, where students learn the fundamental functions of mathematics, is taught for anyone who is interested.

In Geometry you discover theorems and postulates such as the theorems of an isosceles triangle. Don't ask your teacher if there's an angle-side-side theorem because it's called the the angle-side-angle theorem (ASA).

Algebra I greets almost all ninth graders to high school, and as most find out, the initiation comes on the first report card. And if you make it through then it's on to Algebra II,III, and maybe even Calculus.

"Where's my multiplication table?" ... "What theorem goes with this problem?" ... "Does cos + sin = tan? Or is it csc + cotan = sec.? ... math courses are designed to give students a good background and preparation for the future.

Did you know that man is said to be one of the frog's greatest enemies, because so many are captured and used for disection? The Biology department added to the frog's depopulation, but all in the name of science.

Electrons ... protons ... neutrons ... "Why'd they even bother to name them when you can't even see them?" The answer can be found by either asking your science teacher or by going to your nearby "Funk and Wagnall's."

If Mao said "jump" to the four million people in China, the resulting earthquake would cause a tidal wave that would cover the United States. I thought all they learned in physics were theories and formulas!

Dissecting frogs, starfish, and clams ... memorizing diagrams for a pop test ... watching films of slimy worms and snails ... all to understanding of man and his environment.

The most puzzling question is why do we dissect and memorize the parts of animals, but we can't learn about human sex?

"History Students' Wind up' in court"

English isn't the only curriculum with new courses. The History department was also to include "Roots of Western Civilization," a study of the ancient world to the fall of the Roman Empire. Some of the classes engaged in several interesting projects this year such as individual projects on early river valley civilizations. During a study of Greece, Mrs. Gwen Ford's class was visited by four Greek students who talked to them about Greece and demonstrated some Greek dances.

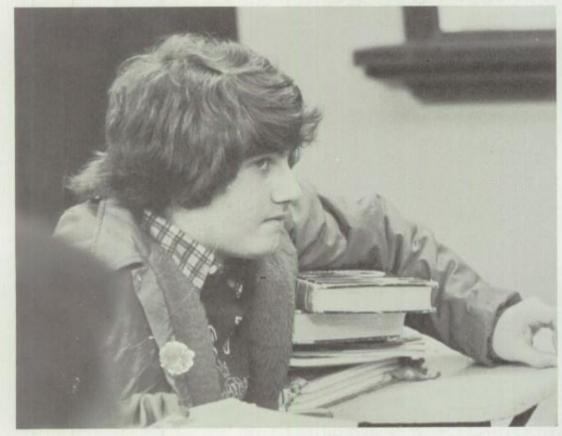

"Geography of the East," another new course, was the study of people and the culture of the Eastern world. The monotony of History was broken by many memorable moments like the time Mr. Chuck Evans leaned too far on his lectern and fell forward to the floor. The class exploded. Mr. Evans, gathering himself off the floor, murmured in a familiar way, "That's life in the raw."

Mr. Lee Madrazo's classes went on field trips to court.

Confused, Linda Halter asks a question about psychology review notes.

Special thanks to the Library for their contribution

The Greenville High School Library is one of the two largest in the school system, both in space and also in the book collection. There are over 15,000 books, more books per student than is required for accreditation.

There are three full-time staff members, two librarians Mary Alice Witters and Betty Atwood and an AV Consultant-Clerk Marjorie Ridgell, who takes care of the Public Address equipment for the school and also sponsors the AV Committee, which puts on the full-length movies during study halls, as well as assisting with reference work and other jobs in the library.

The full-time librarians spend most of their time helping students with reference work and with full classes brought to the library. The philosophy of Greenville High School Library is to allow the students all the freedom they can cope with, but still trying to maintain an acceptable noise level. It is regretted that it is necessary to check students at the door, but with the 500 books per year having been stolen previous to this system, there seemed to be no other choice.

Magazines come in handy to Keith Wilson.

Debra Gailey finds the library a quiet place to do her homework.

Drama increases

in number

Drama classes this year increased in number. To give more students a chance to take Drama II, the third period Drama I class combined into a joint-session offering Drama I and Drama II at the same time. During the year this class consisted of panomines, improvisations, skits directed by individual students, a children's play and work on two contest plays.

"Butterfly's Buffet," a children's play, was performed at GHS. "High Roads" and a play by the Marx Brothers were among the contest plays the class worked on.

The other two drama classes were offered fourth and fifth periods for Drama I and Drama II respectively. The fourth period class consisted of panomines, skits, excerts from famous plays and one-act plays as "A Haunted Auditorium" and "Romantic Conspiracy."

"The Other Side," "Harry Falsetto,"
"Heat Lighting" and "Even the Hater" were among the fifth period's plays. The time in between when the students didn't work on plays, they concentrated solely on stage work.

The artist's medium is the world

It is amazing how one piece of chalk, one stick of charcoal, one brush, one jar of paint, one hunk of clay, and one pair of hands, can create a marvelous creation.

This year the Art Department came out as one of the stronger departments. Art classes throughout the day brought students a better chance to work on their creations.

Art I, for aspiring new artists, concentrated on design, composition, drawing, painting, and such newer art studies as macrame, ceramics, and even weaving. Art III concentrated on individual creation through individual projects. Great amounts of time were put into these projects and thus emerged many award-deserving works.

Art IV concentrates primarily on ceramics and work with a kiln. Hand-building, throwing the material on the wheel, and making glazes all come into account in this ceramics study. Acrylics, or advanced classes, take several field trips to see special exhibits at local museums.

Art I students find freehand sketching often tedious.

Band seeks new director

First on the agenda for the Greenville High School Band was a getting acquainted session with their new band director Steven Gillespie. Starting out, the band practiced two hours a day together, along with eleven hours of practice per week which was expected of each member on his own.

Not only did the GHS band play at all the football games but at also three out-ofseason concerts; their most important being at the airport upon the arrival of President Gerald Ford to Greenville.

A small but dedicated group of musicians is the Greenville High Orchestra. Besides working on music for performances, they also studied string techniques along music and history theories.

The Girls Chorus and the Advanced Chorus performed at McAlister Square for the American Education Week, the Christmas Concerts, and one Spring concert.

Girls' sports rising at GHS

Climbing steps isn't the only physical activity for Greenville High School students. Boys' and girls' P.E. is available. Boys' P.E. taught by Smith Danielson, includes football, basketball, softball, track, field, volleyball, soccer, and tumbling. Emphasis is placed on team effort to strengthen individual skills. One might wonder where Greenville High gets it's muscular athletic teams. Needless to say they are formed in P.E. class.

Girl's P.E. included team activities such as volleyball, baseball, and softball with emphasis on individual skill in tennis, bowling, badminton, and gymnastics.

With a little more time and a lot more money maybe one day the boys will come to watch the girls play football for Greenville High.

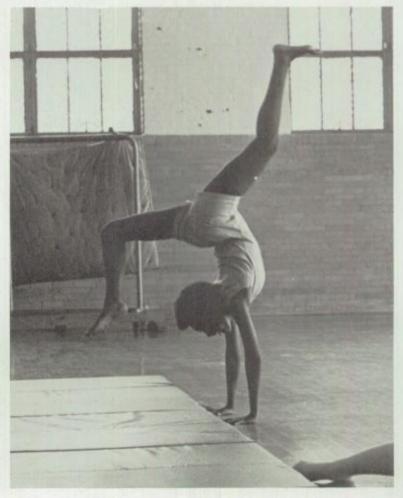

I wonder how Kenny Carver and Norwood McBee would look in Cheerleading uniforms!

Tumbling seems to be what these two girls are attempting to do.

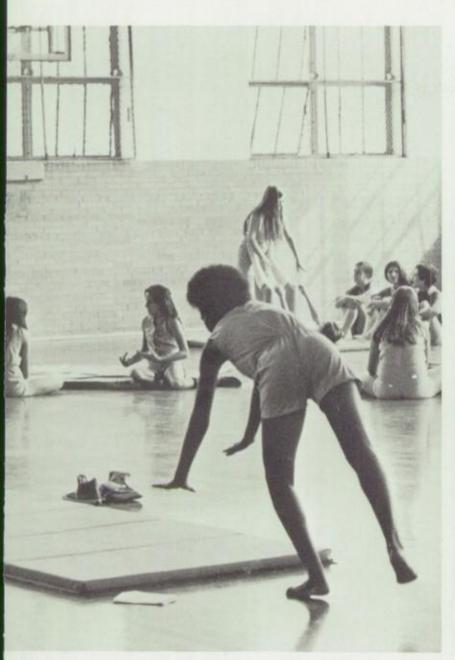

Russell Stall attempts a shot from the foul line during gym.

"We are taught to fill in life a place"

Walking down the third floor hall one hears seemingly thousands of typewriters and a few adding machines blaring away. This is where the Greenville High business courses are taught. These courses include Coop I, Coop II, and Personal Typewriting.

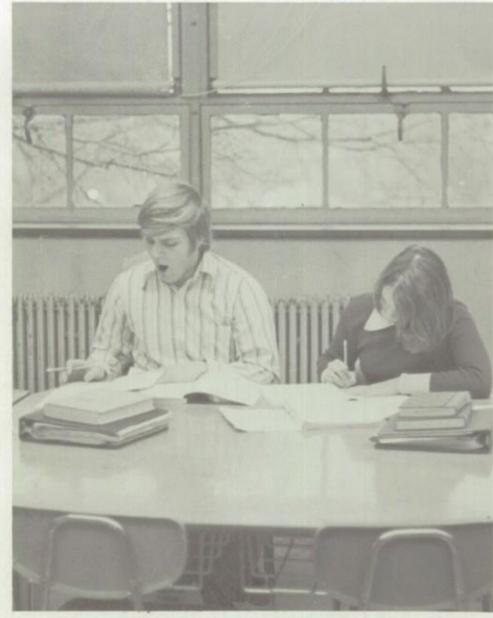

Coop I and Coop II are a new experience at Greenville High. Their main objective is to help high school girls desiring a business career to hold a job to get the necessary experience. So far there are two classes of Coop I and Coop II. They are taught by Gladys Perrin and Delores Canty.

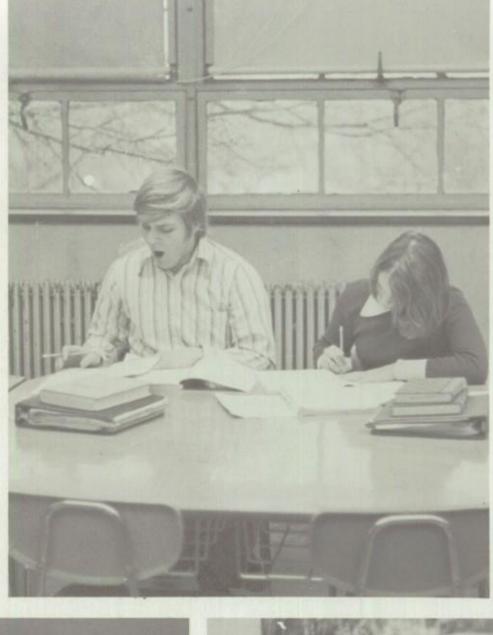

Coop I is a career, business-oriented course designed to permit pupils to explore and to gather information, procedures, and skills involved with the world of business.

Coop II is a career objective course giving emphasis toward individual pupil career choices.

Personal Typewriting is a one-semester course designed for college bound students desiring to learn the basic principles of typewriting.

At the bottom but not forgotten

In the Greenville High basement, but not forgotten is the mechanical drawing room. Mechanical Drawing I provides basic understanding for a technical career in engineering art. Mechanical Drawing II is an advanced study of this talent which includes a semester of architectural drawing thus preparing the student for a further career in architecture. This year Mechanical Drawing II went downtown to participate in the American Education week. This was most helpful to those interested in a career in Mechanical Drawing. To instructor Richard Davis, the only tragic moment was "The Monday after Clemson beat Georgia."

Other career oriented courses are Distributive Education I and Distributive Education II. These classes are designed to help those interested in a career in distribution. They teach basic salesmanship, speech, human and public relations, and advertising.

Yet another course designed to teach students a skill is Agriculture I. These classes involve plant, animal, and soil Science, home gardening, and agriculture shop.

Being on time, honest, tactful, cooperative and courteous to both passengers and, the public are some of the responsibilities of twenty-four active GHS bus drivers. But behind-the-scene duties include enduring noisy teenie boppers, broken axles and smoking. Bus Driver of the Month and Golden Wheel awards were given at the end of the year to deserving bus drivers.

Thirty classroom hours and six hours of behind-the-wheel experience is what students receive in the Drivers Education course. Each student learned to physically change a tire among other things. Coard Don Hall, the instructor of Drivers Education, felt that, "I have, as the instructor, a brake on my side of the car, but I also could use an ejector button with a parachute like a jet pilot might use."

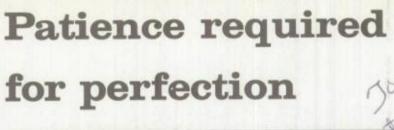

Basic Consumer Education, Child Development, Food Preparation and Nutrition, Consumer Education, Clothing and Textile, and Housing and Home Furnishing were some of the Vocational courses offered this year. Both males and females participated in these courses with an unusual amount of boys in the Child Development course. This could come to the conclusion that GHS is producing well-informed fathers-to-be.

Donaldson Center

One of the most helpful areas of the Greenville Educational Program for non college-bound students is Donaldson Center. The Center, located at Donaldson Air Base, offers such trades as cosmetology, masonry, electricity, brick laying, welding, auto mechanics, drafting, air conditioning, refrigeration, building construction, food services, graphic arts, health assistant, machine shop, sheet, metal, and tile setting.

Donaldson Center gives students a chance to learn a vocation. Two units of credit are learned for each three-hour course. Two sessions are offered—one in the morning for seniors, and one in ohe afternoon for juniors.

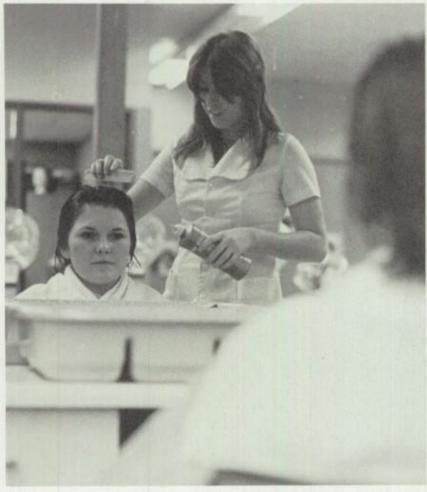

The Center is designed to train students in their individual skills so that after high school, they can be transferred straight into rewarding jobs.

School for the Donaldson Center student is not just something to do during the day to keep from getting bored. It is a very important part of shaping themselves into money-earning, responsible adults.

Leon Parks and Sonny Riddle learn the function of an electrial "box" in Electric Shop.

Carpentry worker Billy Kennedy scrapes a window sill in seeking an exact fit.

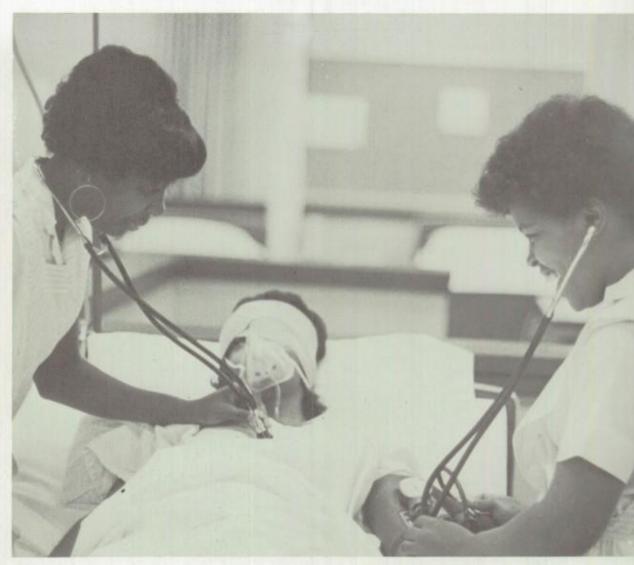

Auto-mechanic student Freddie Hopkins fine tunes the engine with an electronic timer.

GHS students attend Fine Arts program

Greenville County schools have had the chance to participate in something new and exciting in the arts—the Art Center. Students from all eight schools come to the center every day. Such courses as modern dance, music, painting and jewelry making, and theater are offered. The modern dance, painting and jewelry making, and music departments participate in sevoral shows and concerts during the year. The film making, ceramics and printmaking departments, taught by Bob Chance, hold shows and participate in several events where they show their learned talents

The theater department, headed by Fred Breckinridge, is probably one of the most time consuming courses offered. The theater put on several plays including "Spoon River Anthology," "Midsummer Night's Dream," and a musical, "Three Penny Opera." Rehearsals close to performances can be as often as seven nights a week, plus Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

School employees must be dedicated

Greenville High received a new head dietician, Alma Lee Johnson. Lucille Roseman, dietician for many years left GHS shortly after Christmas. Mr. Johnson took over Mrs. Roseman's staff consisting of Delia "DeeDee" McKinney, who has been at GHS for ten years, Silveree Peterson, a cafeteria worker for twenty-six years, and Annie Johnson, who has served meals to Greenville High students forty-two years! A new breakfast program was started this year. It is offered anytime from 7 to 10 a.m.

Judy Smith, GHS nurse, lends a sympathetic ear to all the aches and pains of students all day every day. There are several other staff members that make GHS function smoothly. Martha Garrett, the GHS Secretary, and Mary Wardlaw, the new bookkeeper add their extra efforts to make GHS function.

Janitor Homer Todd wonders why he's cutting the same grass he just got finished with!

Al Reed joins faculty as administrator

To some students the main office is the "torture chamber" where punishment is received. When you're sent down with a referral card, they roll out the "red carpet." But there are often times when an administrator is needed—but it often seems that when you need one, no one can be found. That's because their jobs are demanding—patrolling the hall with walkietalkies, satisfying troubled parents and teachers, and checking lockers during bomb threats.

Assistant principal Dr. Al Reed came to GHS from the University of Colorado. Fred Simpson asst. principal, was close friends with folk singer, John Denver.

Dr. Max Skidmore states that "being a principal gives me the opportunity to work with many students, parents, and teachers."

Ed Op Day, PSAT, and SAT tests, and rearranging schedules are a few of the things counselors do for you. Marilee Moore served as the new Junior counselor replacing Helen Galloway, who retired last year. Other counselors are Xanthene Norris for the Senior Class and Caro Wofford for the Sophomore Class.

Christmas Tournament Runner-up

Greenville High started off this year's basketball season with flying colors. Led by two all-tournament performers, Danny Jackson and Ricky Foster, the Raiders took decisions over Eastside and J.L. Mann.

From tip-off to buzzer the Raiders played good basketball and opened the tournament with a 51-42 victory over the Eastside Eagles.

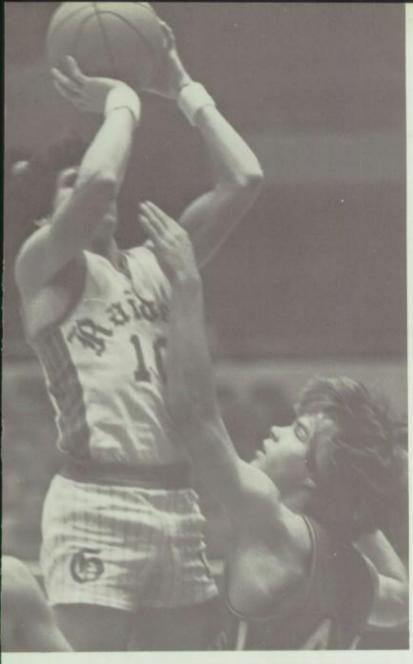

In the second round Greenville rolled to a 62-46 win over rival J.L. Mann. In the finals Greenville met Easley and were dealt the first loss of the season 55-53. The Raiders finished second in the tournament.

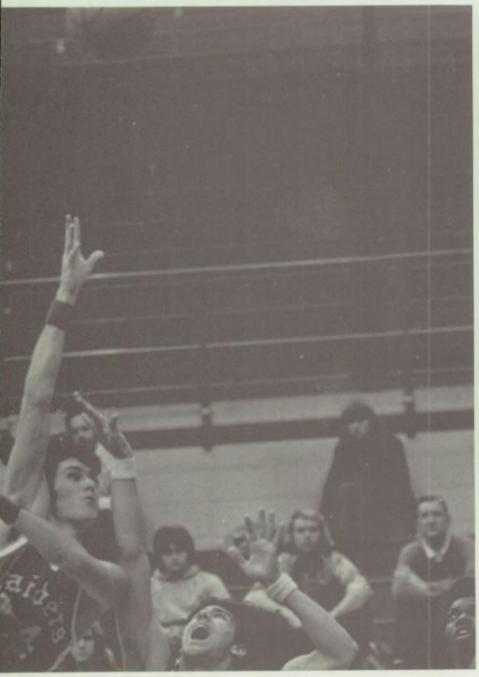

Head Coach Don Hall discusses strategy during a

Seniors lead Red Raiders

This year the Greenville High Red Raiders have gained experience as well as talent. Back from last year's team are seniors Steve Ladson, Ricky Foster, Eddie Mars, Luster Turner, and junior Danny Jackson. With additions of Jerry Lumpkin, Antonio Shumate and Don Shirley, the Red Raiders were enriched with senior leadership.

The locker room is a room where the team meets before a game. Perhaps here more than elsewhere senior leadership plays a very important role. The "rookies" are nervous and most obviously tight before the game. A word from an older boy, one that the team looks up to, is most important.

Driving inside, Danny Jackson attempts a lay-up.

High-scoring center Ricky Foster bombs one over Westside.

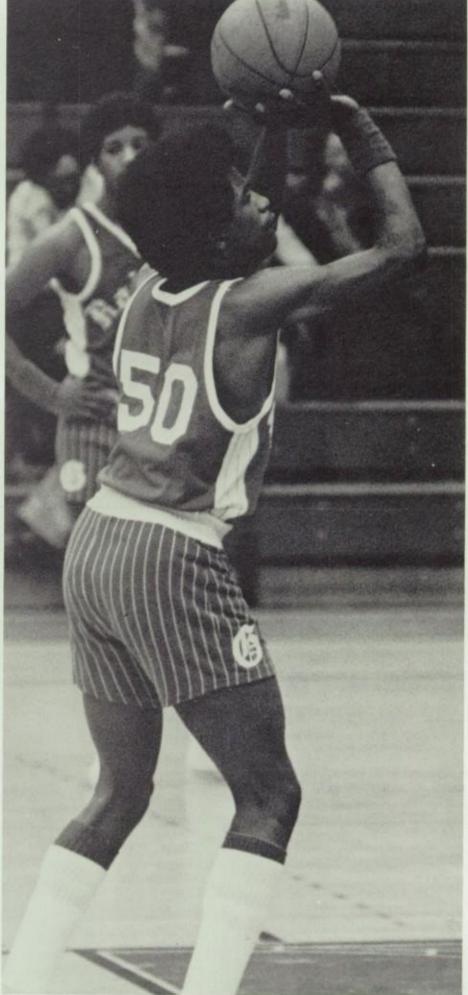

Playmaker Steve Ladson and game breaker Danny Jackson rush in action against Westside.

The Raider bench is ecstatic after Danny Jackson's game-tying shot against Greenwood.

Against Westside, Antonio Shumate enjoyed a great defensive game.

Don Hall coaches 100th win

Greenville High continued to take wins over crosstown and region rivals as the 1974-75 season began.

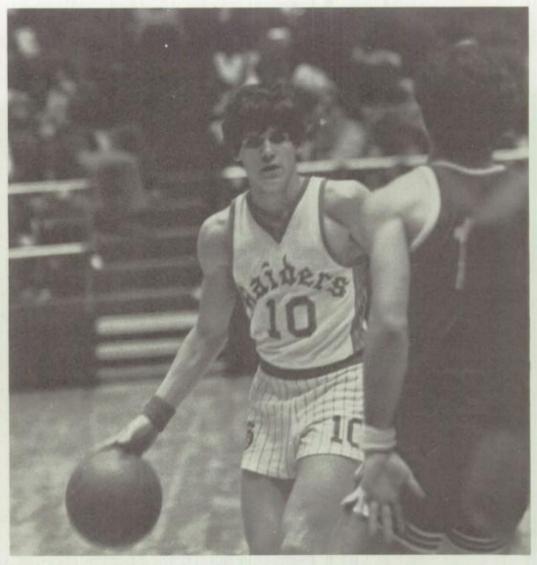

J.L. Mann proved to be less than a match for the Red Raiders as they defeated them all three games in the two played.

Wade Hampton took one victory over the Raiders at the Wade Hampton gym, but the Raiders defeated the Generals twice.

The Raiders defeated D.W. Daniel High School to break their unbeaten record.

Hanna fell twice to the Raiders, at home and away.

Coach Don Hall gained his 100th victory at Memorial Auditorium over Carolina.

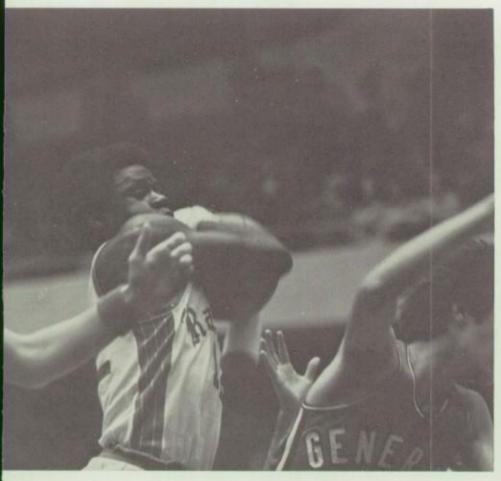

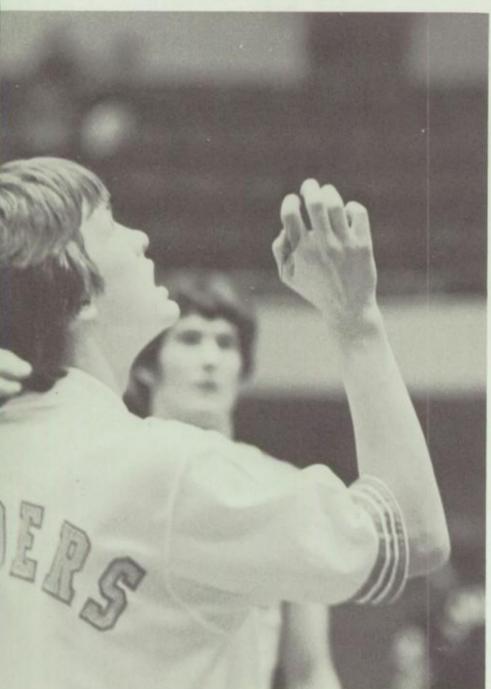

Guarded by an Eastside defender, Glen Kennedy sets up a play.

The Raider basketball team makes way toward the dressing room before the game.

Flying elbows and grasping hands surround rebounder Danny Jackson.

Starting a fast break is a quick outlet pass from Ronald Suber.

The rim fills Dan Jackson's eyes as he anticipates a rebound.

Jayvee Raiders once again successful

Coach William Johnson was faced with the chore of rebuilding the Jayvee Basketball Squad. This year the Baby Raiders had eight players, with the only returning player being Bubba Withington. Many players quit after last year because of a lack of playing time.

Despite this, the Raiders held their own against larger teams.

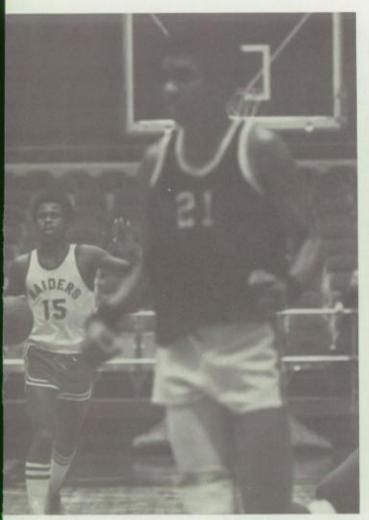

Baby Raider reserve Kelly Powell watches from the bench.

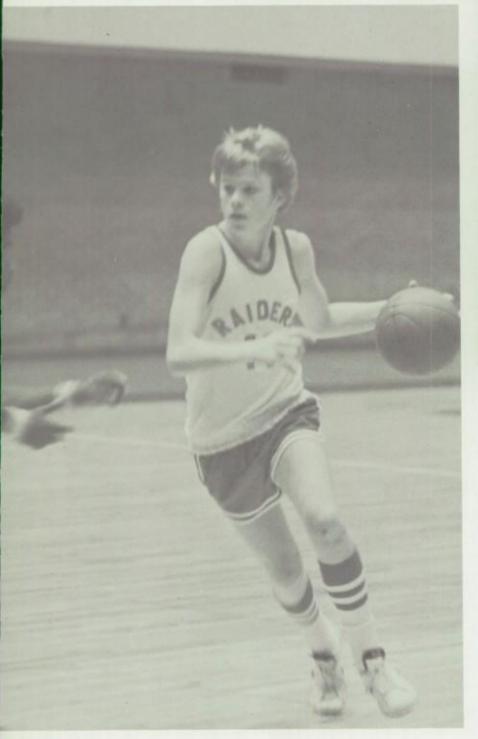

The Baby Raiders make a steal on defense.

Bubba Withington drives on a Carolina defender.

Setting up a play is James Wilson's job.

Getting the ball in bounds is hard against a troublesome Carolina defense.

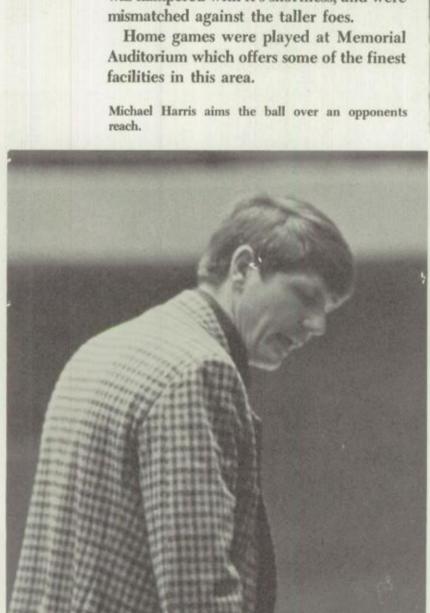

Finding the handle to the ball takes concentration on Walter Byers part.

Freshman challenge area foes

This year the C-Team or freshman team welcomed new coach Duke Fisher.

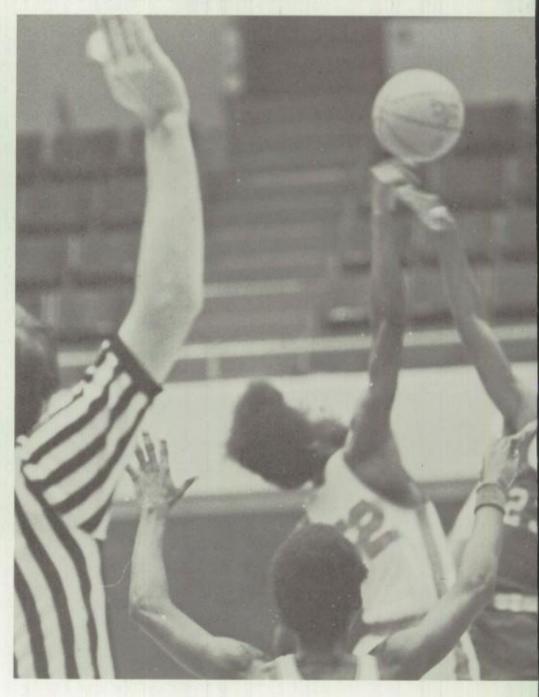

With a new baseline offense the talented freshmen nailed several opponents for losses.

The team led by starters: Jimmy Withington, Richie Marrett and Mark Williams was hampered with it's shortness, and were mismatched against the taller foes.

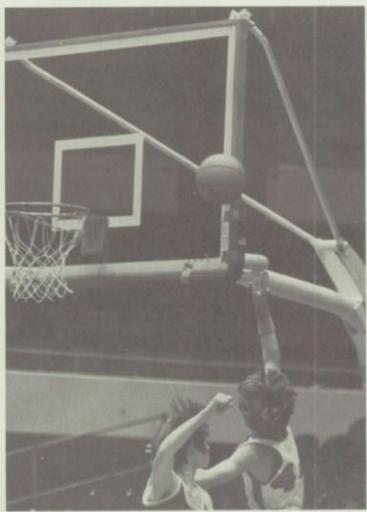

Getting a team up for a game is the main job of Coach Duke Fisher.

Donald Rogers lofts a foul shot as Mark Williams looks on.

Mark Williams lays the ball in for two points after a steal.

Starting a ball game at the tip is Michael Harris.

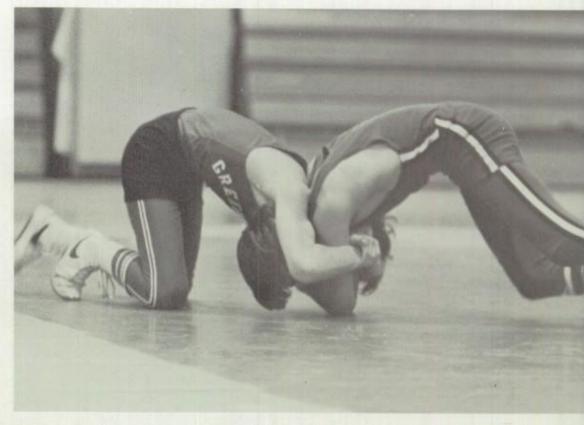

An outstanding ball-handling guard, Richie Marrett eyes his foul shot attempt.

Wrestling draws spectators

The 1974-75 season was only the second year that the Red Raiders occupied the wrestling mat.

Top athletes compete in this tiring sport wearing no outer protection with the exception of the small headpiece that protects the ears.

Many wrestlers were experienced and won while others were inexperienced and lost.

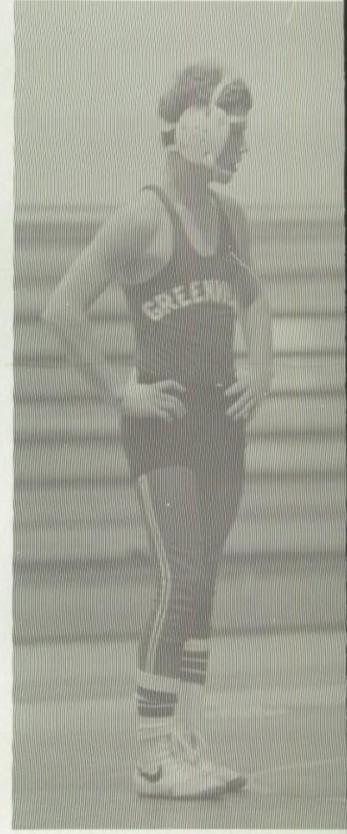

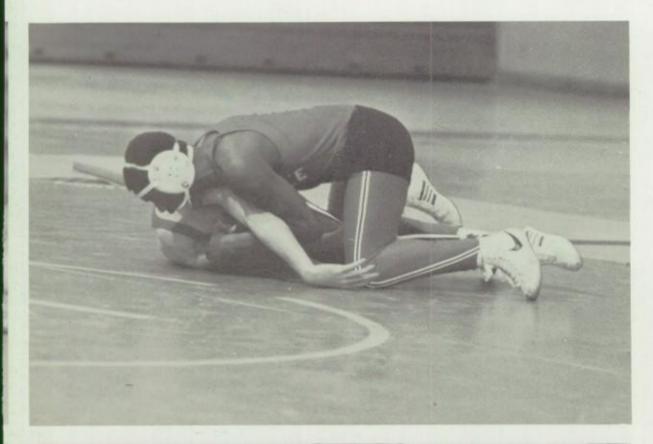

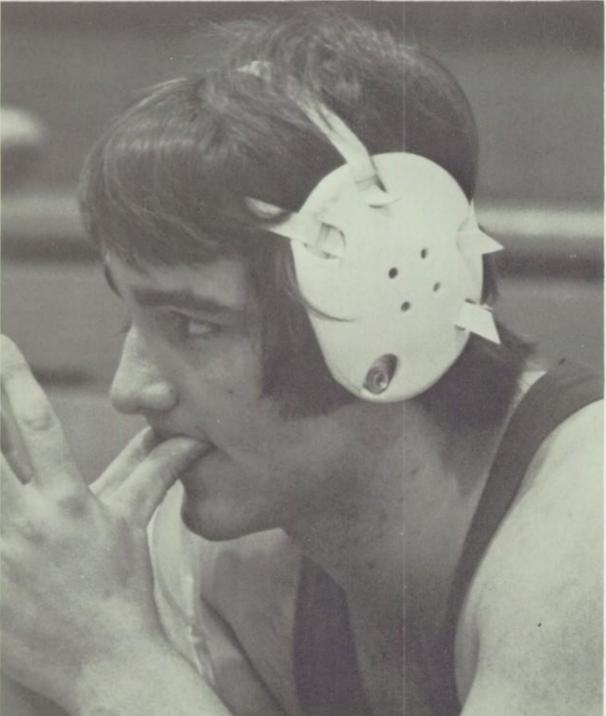

All wrestlers must loosen up as Bob Neuhierl does.

Taking a breather during a "heated" match, David Stapleton eyes his foe.

Finishing off opponents is easy if done like Sammy Woody.

Juniors learning the ropes of GHS

PSAT Tests, Career planning tests, the Junior-Senior prom, and U.S. History are some of the many privileges that are bestowed upon Juniors. There are dues to pay, powderpuff to play and coach, grades to earn, and courses to, hopefully, pass. The Junior year could be said to be the hardest or easiest year depending on the courses you take. Cript courses of AP courses, you can choose your own—but everyone knows you won't study as you should.

The Junior year, in the eyes of many, is your most important time in school. PSAT scores qualify outstanding students as NMSQT finalists or semi-finalists, colleges pick top high school juniors for honors, and students are forced to think about the future.

Plans must be made about attending post-graduate colleges, universities, or institutions. Juniors begin visiting campuses and form images and desires about college and college life. As a junior, you also begin thinking about your future career.

Perhaps the greatest responsibility of a junior, as an upperclassman is to set a mature example for the underclassmen. If this duty is the greatest responsibility, then the class of '76 came through in blazing glory.

Juniors take SAT for first time

Returning to GHS after three months vacation is quite a hassle. You suddenly remember as you're walking down the halls once again that you've forgotten to buy a notebook. You pick up your schedule and realize you've then got the same ole teachers. And as you're trudging to class thinking how bad you're dreading school, you begin running into all your old friends you haven't seen in so long. You go to class and discover that same ole teacher is pretty nice after all. And then it hits you ... You're really glad to be back at GHS.

Be happy

After two years of being an underclassman you've finally reached that divine goal of being an upperclassman. You're a junior now. You came from J.V. to Varsity, from mature to more mature and if you studied enough you might even be in the National Honor Society. Some students caught spring fever, making studying hard. One incentive used to study harder is that there's only one more year to go. Juniors, we laughed, cried, studied, cut classes, but most of all we passed.

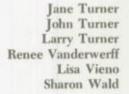

This time a year from now we will be graduating. But between now and then there's a lot to be done. We've made it through yet another year of cramming, cutting, and just getting by. With the Senior year coming up we will vow to study harder but as everyone knows—we won't. Senior year is a long way off and we have three months of summer—so "Be Young, Be Foolish, But Be Happy!"

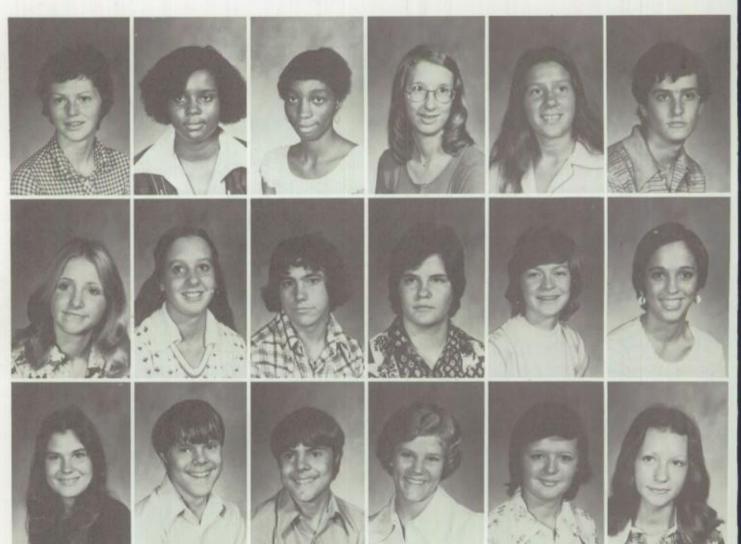

"It's your move!"

"What Did You Do Over The Holiday?"

... was a commonly heard cliche' around GHS after the Christmas holidays. People did a variety of things: some stayed at home and recuperated; many had part-time jobs; other students just raised "#&$, and some people even did a little of their homework! Everyone at times believes that when school is out, everything else is "out," never thinking or stopping to consider that there are businesses whose employees have to work everyday of the holidays, and without them life would be less convenient. Several stores stay open til midnight Christmas Eve just so late shoppers can buy presents for their loved ones, but what about the workers and their families. We should appreciate the companies that care enough to always work for us.

Hall of Fame honors top seniors

The nomination of deserving seniors for the 1975 Hall of Fame took place on February sixth. Both the senior class homerooms and the faculty based their decisions for nominees to the Hall of Fame on the following requirements: student service and leadership, ability to get along with both faculty and students, good character, principles, school spirit, active participation in school functions and contribution to the school.

Out of the long list of nominees, eleven students with the highest votes were chosen to be in the Hall of Fame. These few, chosen by fellow students and teachers were voted most outstanding seniors of the class of 1975.

Students take part in societies

Thespians, the honorary dramatic troupe at GHS, sponsored "Wait Until Dark" along with several other plays.

Chosen by their counselors as delegates to the Palmette Boys' and Girls' State were Steve Ladson, Sput Presley, Edward Stall, and Mary Williams.

The 1975 Bits O' Lit, Greenville High's literary magazine, was published by chosen members of the Nautilus staff, the High News staff, beginning journalism students and Quill and Scroll members.

Required qualities for becoming a NHS member are scholarship, leadership, service, integrity and a B+ grade average. Council members of the National Honor Society were Dave Rogers, Edward Stall, Heidi Anderson, Greg Thompson and Jimmy Goforth.

The NHS Induction Service was held in February for the eligible juniors and seniors.

Thespian officers for 1975 were Sherry Springfield, Billy Wheless, Janice Franklin and Beth Gwinn (not pictured).

Representatives from GHS to Girls' and Boys' State were Steve Ladson, Sput Presley, Edward Stall, and Mary Williams.

Bids o' Lit staff included Pam Thompson, Kay Leonard, Alan Ethridge, Gena Cooper, Phyllis Weaver, Bitten Rouser, Leisa Cooper, Rebecca Haynes (editor), Katy Kral, Sarah Huntington, Hank Williams, Edward Stall, Sherry Springfield, Steve Adams, Mary Foster, Nellie Farnsworth.

NHS officers were Dave Rogers, Heidi Anderson, Jimmy Goforth, Greg Thompson, and Edward Stall.

Outside honors round students

Becoming a part of Greenville High was a foreign exchange student from Finland-Matti Rautalahti. Matti lived with GHS Math teacher Raven Mersereau for the entire school year. His stay in the United States was made possible by the American Field Service.

Showing outstanding citizenship, character and scholarship in the field of history was DAR winner Theresa Garrett.

National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test Finalist from Greenville High was Senior, Heidi Anderson.

Mark Taylor and Napoleon McDaniel were chosen on the basis of leadership and interest in a college education as Wofford King Teens.

Nominated as the Carolina Scholar from GHS was Russell Cobb. This program acknowledges scholarship, talent and creativity.

Visiting Lima, Peru, on the American Youth Exchange Program from Greenville High was sophomore Tracy Gilbert.

The Top Teens from GHS for 1975 were Heidi Anderson and Edward Stall.

Matti Rautalahti, AFS student from Finland, was often seen riding his bike to and from school.

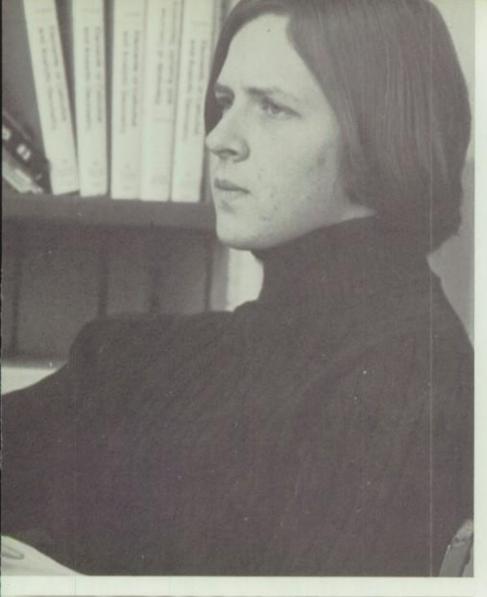

Theresa Garrett, DAR winner, thinks through a question while taking the Arms Service Test.

NMSQT finalist from GHS was Heidi Anderson.

Senior Russell Cobb was nominated Carolina Scholar from Greenville High.

Mark Taylor and Napoleon McDaniel were named the Wofford King Teens from Greenville High.

Honored as Top Teens were Edward Stall and Heidi Anderson.

American Youth Exchange student Tracy Gilbert visited Lima, Peru, during the summer.

Lorne Greene chooses beauties

"Beauties All Year 'Round" was the theme of the Beauty Queen Pageant which was held in January.

Nominated by their fellow classmates, ten semi-finalists from each grade were presented before the student body. The pageant consisted of two phases in which the contestants modeled dresses, then sportswear. When the contestants walked out on stage, Master of Ceremonies John Freeman, GHS teacher, told briefly about the contestants' hobbies, school activities and plans after graduation.

From the forty girls who participated in the pageant only three from each grade were chosen as finalists. Because of a tie for third place, there were four finalists from the ninth grade.

Pictures of the finalists were taken at Heritage Green in Greenville. The pictures were sent to California and judged by Hollywood celebrity Lorne Greene, star of "Bonanza." Greene judged the pictures, from which resulted a winner, a first runner-up, and a second runner-up from each grade.

SPORTS

During the spring, students are often seen on the campus.

Robbie Hooper anxiously awaits a fly out in-centerfield.

Baseball prospects optimistic

Coach Stan Hopkins begins his second year as head varsity baseball coach.

The unseasonable warm weather allowed the Raiders to get right to work on the upcoming season.

Returners Jerry Lumpkin, Brad Sanders, Sandy Boyd, Marty Gilbert, John Bennett, Rusty Harrison, Kenny Reid, Doug Jordan and Clark King add maturity and game experience to the still young squad.

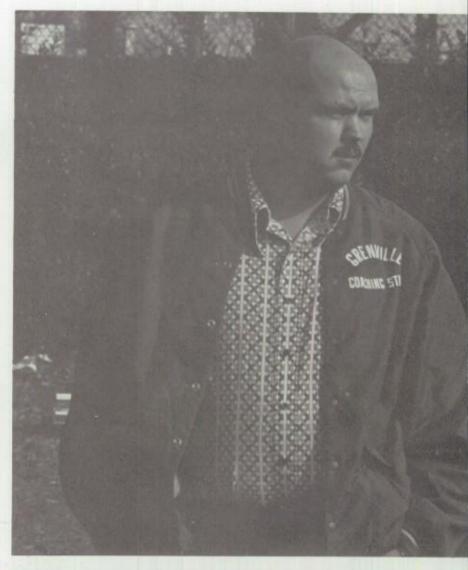

All home games were played at Meadowbrook Park.

Coach Hopkins learns on the field with deep concentration.

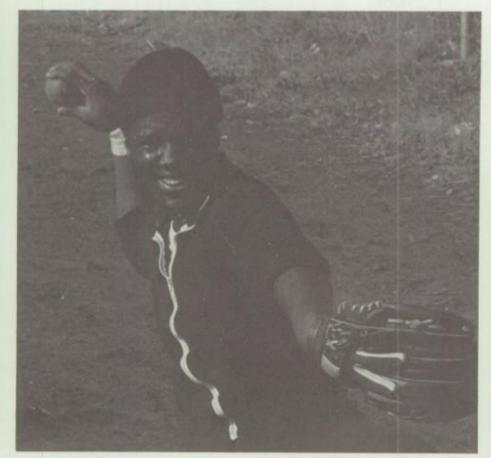

Sophomore Brian Hughes attempts a pitch during practice.

Eagerly awaiting a catch is Glenn Jones.

Warming up is amusing to John Coleman.

With a sense of confidence senior Doug Jordan hurls the baseball.

GHS Baseball Veterans—back row: S. Boyd, D. Jordan, R. Harrison, J. Lumpkin, M. Gilbert, C. King. Front row: J. Bennett, G. Jones, B. Sanders, K, Reid, M. Syracuse.

Track and field begins early

Because of warm weather the Greenville High track team began practice early.

Coaches William Johnson and Malcolm Singleton welcomed back a host of returnees.

Distance runner and high-jumper David Smith, and hurdler Randy Lyons are supposed to anchor this years' team.

Due to Greenville High's small and narrow cinder track, home meets are virtually impossible.

Region I 4A always has good track and field competition, and this year's team was in top contention.

Up and over goes Jimmy Parker in the pole vault.

Randy Lyons is caught striding over the low hurdles.

Coach Singleton takes a break while runners round the track.

Competing in distance events is Junior David Smith.

Craig Galloway practices in the shot put event.

Boys participate in state tournament

Boys Tennis Coach Porter Smith had a tough job this year of picking the top players.

Ray Frazier, Clark Little, Edward Stall, Chris Hayes, Bob Mills, and Rick Quinn anchored the team which traveled to Chattanooga, Tennessee, and Columbia to participate in tournaments.

Home matches were played on the school courts and at Cleveland Park.

Reaching for a return is Chris Hayes.

Practice makes perfect—the early tryout sessions.

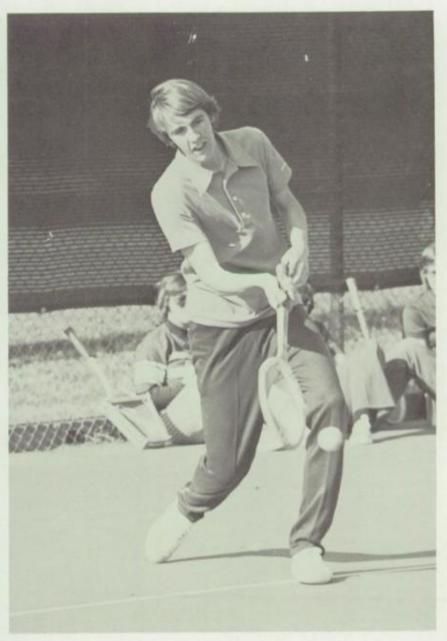

Little Russell Stall prepares to swat the ball.

Preparing to volley takes concentration as Clark Little shows.

Getting the body behind it is the whole idea to Charlie Aiken.

Ray Frazier "zeroes in" on a return.

Girls tennis team gets new coach

Girl's tennis is fast becoming the leading female sport at GHS.

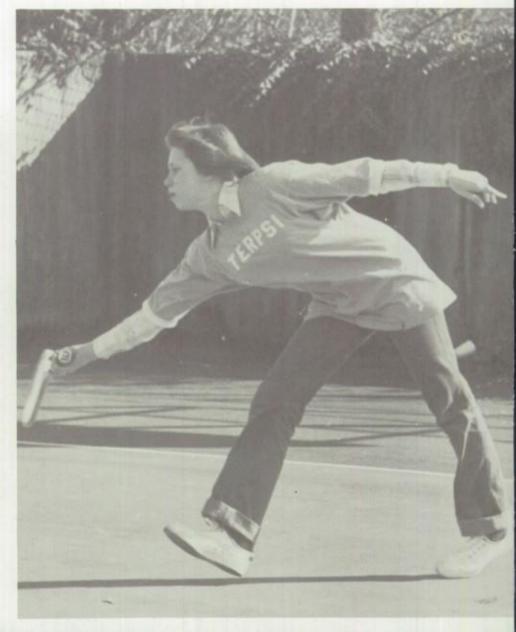

This year Lynn Burnett, the girl's tennis coach, has high hopes for her group of players.

Tryouts turned out sixteen girls, but these were cut down to the best eight.

Perhaps one factor that influenced this year's team performance was experience. Three returning players, Beth Taylor, Barbara Heape, and Cathy McCalla added leadership and talent to the team.

All home tennis matches were held at the school instead of Cleveland Park.

It takes a lot of effort on Ann Gabrels part to reach the oncoming ball.

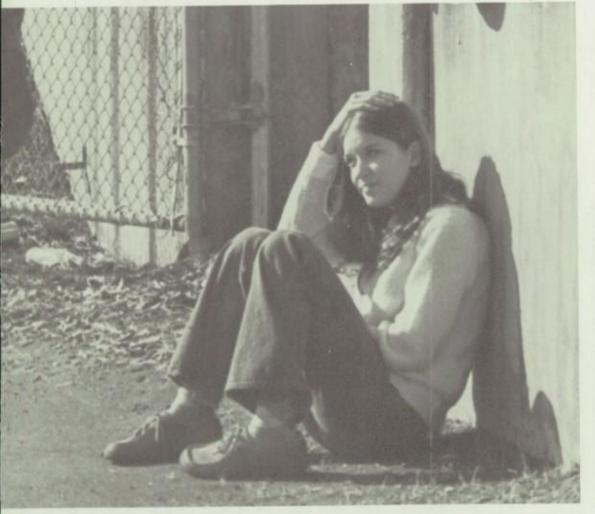

Liz Latham follows through with her backhand.

Coach Lynn Burnett has a pre-practice talk with the players.

Another hopeful watches as the girls begin practice.

Jean Simmons raises on one toe to smash the ball across the net.

Golf team in full swing

The Greenville High Golf Team got underway in its 1975 season placing thirtieth in the Tip-Off Tournament played at the Furman University Golf course.

Golf Coach Fred Bowers selected four players to compete in the team event.

Senior Brian Jones, sophomores Chris Hill and Scott Johnson, and freshman Jimmy Wilson were the four competitors from Greenville High.

This year's golf team lost much of it's experience with the graduation of last year's Seniors, however, Greenville High should have a good team in the coming years.

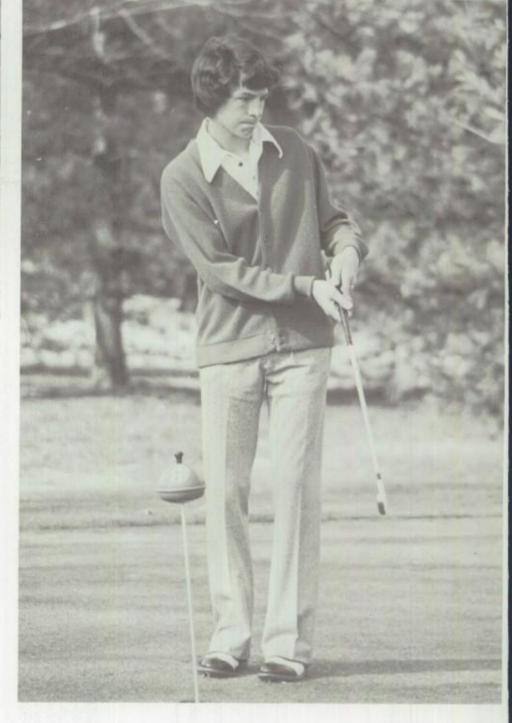

Chris Hill practices putting on the practice green.

In a flurry of sand, Brian Jones blasts out of a sand trap.

Using body English, Jimmy Wilson urges his putt to go in.

Seniors . . . at last!

"Seniors—wow, it wasn't too long ago we were just starting out at GHS as freshmen. The first ninth graders to even come to Greenville High.

We've seen many people join our class and also leave it. By the time we hit our sophomore year, we had learned the socalled "ropes" and were beginning our climb to be one of the best classes ever.

We joined the rest of the underclassmen and had our own representative: at the homecoming festivities.

We were among the first to indulge in selecting our class pictures from two different poses. We were the last class to have the privilege of being taught English by Leora Hannah, for she died during the summer of 1973.

'75 Senior class makes progress

"When you look back over the years, our class was first in quite a few things. We have had the first black student body president and also the first black Miss Raiderama.

Forming the standing committee in our junior year we initiated school spirit by selling Raider hats and buttons before the football games and helped rope off the pep club's seating section on the fifty yard line.

Also in our junior year we were part of an experiment with "bag" lunches. This is where one side of the cafeteria offered cold lunches or bag lunches consisting usually of a sandwich. Where as the other side would serve a hot lunch.

Assisting our class with decisions concerning courses, grades and college have been three different counselors; Corine Klein, Barry Foster and Xanthene Norris. The largest number of new teachers came during our Senior year.

We've done our share of changing and amending the constitution. We've filled all the positions that Senior classes before us filled."

Seniors become part of changes

During our stay at GHS we've seen various things change over the years. For instance, the number of school cheerleaders has changed from seven to eleven.

Not only can you get suspended for major offenses, but for also shooting "moons" as one of our Seniors found out.

Sometimes during class elections, even write-in candidates were allowed to stay in office.

Candidates campaigning for office can give their speeches now and get away with having "streakers" make it more interesting.

Underclassmen were able to park in the Senior parking lot constantly and get away with it.

Fighting for a smoking lounge, I guess will go on forever, but I must admit, we sure came close to getting one.

Changes for the better

"With our being Seniors, you'd think we've experienced just about everything at good 'ole GHS, but there were still some things that occurred even this year that were new to us.

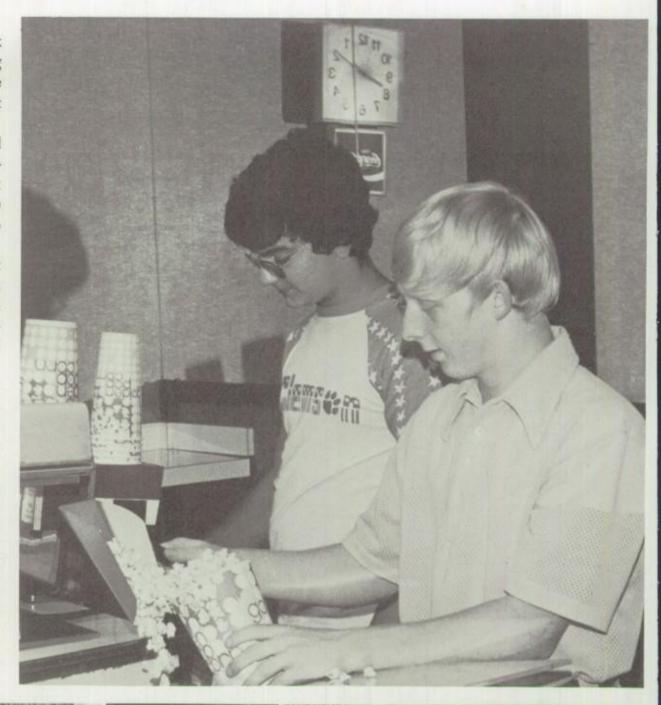

For instance, a little blue card referred to as the "Senior Pass" was issued to all Seniors to give them the privilege to check out of a study hall, to go outside, to use the telephone or restroom, and occasionally to the library.

Also, instead of having college night where admissions counselors came from the different colleges, Greenville High participated in a city-wide educational opportunity day held at Memorial Auditorium.

Seniors as well as the rest of the student body were offered the opportunity to have their names stamped in gold on the cover of the Nautilus as another first in 1975.

Any student who was eighteen years old was granted permission to see his permanent records and those who were not eighteen could with their parents' consent. This all came about when Congress ruled that "federal funds would be denied to any school district that refused to allow access to their children's files."

Outside factors influence

GHS Seniors had a number of city, county, state and national factors influencing their lives and environment this year.

The first United States President to resign, Richard M. Nixon, was in our Senior

South Carolina elected the first Republican Governor in one hundred years.

The United States saw the unemployment rate rise to almost ten per cent, the most people out of work since the depression years of 1929.

Also the stock market dropped the lowest since 1929. This made it difficult for the students planning to attend college after their Senior year to obtain financial aid.

The automobile industry and many major plants across the United States closed their doors due to the drastic economic conditions.

The major automobile corporations offered to the public as an insentive to buy cars and trucks, a tax rebate which could enable the purchaser to receive a refund up to as much as $500.00.

Many students look forward to Nau tilus Day but some students who didn't buy one have to sit back and watch everyone else have fun.

This year's Nautilus is one of the bes and it wasn't easy to put it together either Your Nautilus staff put many hours of hard work into it for you, and many parents and businesses supported us by buying ads, etc ... helping the Nautilus financially.

We, the staff just want to end the year by saying thank you to everyone who sup ported us, morally and financially.

Specialists in Motor Transportation Insurance since 1939.

A title on the door...rates a Bigelow on the floor

The past is a dream, The present a strife, The future a mystery, And such is life.

May all the lives in the Class of '75 be successful.

To one of the best teachers I be ever had al think you're a pretty good teacher even though sometimes it gets pretty hard to take notes Have a great summer Ricky Billing With the seasonal approach as our theme "GHS all year 'round," the Nautilus staff tried to produce the best annual ever. We like it and hope you, the students, will also. Publishing a yearbook involves time, effort, patience, skill and the willingness to accept a helping Big M, hand from others. Without the efforts and encouragement from William Holder, Edward Stall, Billy I've really enjoyed Haney, Tim Reed, Bill Henry, Russell Stall, Matti Rautalahti, Gil Gilbeing in your lasso lespie, John Freeman, Wendy Hudson, Miriam Rice, Al Reed, The ales near, except for Nautilus Staff, Our Paragon Repreall the motes and sentatives and my mother, this Nautilus probably wouldn't be as reports. Keep up the together as it is . . . . From season to season As the good word year unwound, Our '75 Nautilas has protrayed GHS all year 'round. Sherry Springfield Howard Elevede Nautilus Edito
